French, son of a pioneer Modoc county family which publishes the Alturas Plaindealer, long established weekly in this Siskiyou mountain region, has been accused of the shooting March 25 of Claude L. McCracken, 46. French has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity.

It is much easier for a boy to make a nickel now than it was when I was a lad, and by the same token it is much easier to spend it. There are so many nickel temptations that the boy who is able to get home and place his money in a savings bank is the exception. If the lad doesn't run into the temptation some one brings it to him in some form or other. The spending custom has become such a habit that Ben Franklin wouldn't recognize his thrift program.

And then "Dick" Vignars hands me a blotter and a business card and something on both of 'em about hardware and insurance and I tell him he can't do it. If "Dick" starts to burning hardware I'm going to start burning weeds which I can do, but he can't burn hardware. It takes some credulity to harmonize hardware and insurance, but "Dick" says he can do it. You ask him. I only have the blotter and the business card, and no authority to write insurance, anyway.

Even a bicycle that isn't in motion can get you into trouble if it is lying on the sidewalk, and it can get you into trouble if it isn't lying. Bicycles are as moody as a love-sick adolescent, especially if the adolescent is pushing the pedals, and they serve a good purpose too. Boys are impetuous. They dismount with the alacrity of a cowboy, and abandon the wheel with apparent unconcern, but they want it to be where they left it when they return. And it's all right if in the meantime some pedestrian hasn't fallen over it and been hauled to a hospital. However, boys will be boys. They just have to be, and weren't they?

TAX-DODGING FINAL DRIVE ON BILBAO NAMED

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Congress completed the roster of its committee to investigate tax dodging today when Speaker Bankhead named six house members to work with six senators.

The action opened the way for the start, probably Wednesday, of what may be a sensational inquiry that will throw publicity on wealthy individuals accused by President Roosevelt of avoiding and evading millions of dollars in tax payments.

Chairman Doughton (D., Miss.) of the house ways and means committee said the joint committee would meet tomorrow to organize and determine procedure, probably start the actual investigation Wednesday, and probably ask Secretary Morgenthau to be the first witness.

In addition to Doughton, Bankhead appointed these members of the ways and means committee to the investigating body: Representatives Cullen (D., N. Y.), Vinson (D., Ky.), Cooper (D., Tenn.), Treadway (R., Mass.) and Crother (R., N. Y.).

The senate members, chosen last week by Vice-President Garner, and Chairman Harrison (D., Miss.) of the Finance committee, and Senators King (D., Utah), George (D., Ga.), Walsh (D., Mass.), LaFollette (P., Wis.) and Capper (R., Kans.).

Doughton is expected to be named joint committee chairman at tomorrow's meeting. Congress has directed that the committee ferret out any instances of tax evasion and suggest legislative methods of plugging up loop-holes in the revenue laws which permit tax avoidance.

CHURCH SEEKS TO SELL LAND

"Between the devil and the deep blue sea..."

Caught between provisions of a will which left the church land and money for a time for aged and orphans, and the provisions of the Anaheim zoning ordinance, the Evangelical Lutheran church synod today sought relief through the Orange county superior court.

In a double-barreled complaint filed today the church sought to quiet its title to eight lots in Anaheim from any claims of Mrs. Marie Opel or Wilhelm Popp and to gain court permission to sell the property.

It pointed out that Marie Thomas, who left the property and $8000 to the church, specified that the property was to be used for a home for orphans or aged, and was not to be sold for any purpose. At the same time the zoning ordinance allows only single-family dwellings in the zone where the land lies, and will not allow such a home, according to the complaint.

The church claims it would be fulfilling Miss Thomas' wishes if it sold the property and brought other property on which to build a home. A. E. Pennekamp and Kaufman & Anderson prepared the complaint.

Husband of Doris Duke Arrested By Russians

MOSCOW, (AP)—James H. R. Cromwell, free after his arrest for taking pictures of proscribed areas of the grim Kremlin walls planned to leave today with his wife, the former Doris Duke, for Leningrad. Cromwell was detained for an hour and a half yesterday for attempting to take pictures in front of the National hotel which adjoins the American embassy. The Kremlin walls form the background for both buildings.

He said he was taken into the hotel where he was held until he had made clear he had no illegal purpose in making the pictures.

514 STUDENTS HONORED AT SERVICES

Admonishing 514 candidates for graduation that idealism and reverence are still the greatest values in this changing world, the Rev. Harry Evan Owings and the Rev. George Warner officiated respectively at Santa Ana junior college and high school baccalaureate services held yesterday afternoon and evening at the high school auditorium.

Packed houses were in attendance at both services to hear the prominent ministers preach, each on a different topic but setting forth the same high principles of conduct for the young men and women to abide by.

Choosing A Way The Rev. Mr. Owings' topic, "More of Reverence," dealt with the choosing of a way of life for graduates, whether that way should be one of cynicism, or one of reverence for the ways of God and the finer ideals of life.

Pointing out that the cynicism of one that would lead to a harsh outlook and fail to elevate the individual, the Rev. Mr. Owings offered the reverent way as one that would benefit the individual insofar as it meant a spiritual awakening, accompanied by a new interpretation of the factors that go to make up life as it is today.

"Discrimination of values in paramount in the world of today," declared the Rev. Dr. Warner on the question "Does Religion Deal With Reality?" to high school graduates at night. "Values are not things but the abstract virtues. If youth sets himself to produce beauty, discover truth and possess a loving attitude, he ties himself into the program of religion and eternal significance."

Age of Change Choosing as his text "When I Become A Man I Put Away Childhood Things" Dr. Warner brought out the point that the world is in an age of transition, swinging away from the idea of infallibility to the idea of usability, from the doctrine of safety first to the idea of adventurous living, from the sense of independence to interdependence.

He emphasized the fact that important discoveries go hand in hand with every age, and that divine revelation cannot function without the desire for discovery in mankind. The growth of life is what necessitates a clear comprehension of true values, he declared.

Assisting at the college baccalaureate were the Rev. O. Scott McFarland and Superintendent of Schools Frank A. Henderson. Taking part in high school services were the Rev. Walter Scott Buchanan, the Rev. A. S. Bash, the Rev. C. D. Hicks, the Rev. Perry E. Schrock and the Rev. E. Johnson.

Special music at both affairs was provided by the Elwood Bear string quartet, the college A Cappella choir, the mixed glee clubs.

Accuse 2 Drivers In Traffic Death

Equal negligence on the part of both drivers.

That was the verdict given today by a coroner's jury in an inquest into the death of Harold Scovel, 18, Newport High school senior who was killed in Costa Mesa last Wednesday afternoon. The inquest was held this morning in the Dixon chapel, Costa Mesa.

The accident took place at Tustin avenue and Sixteenth streets, Costa Mesa. The car in which young Scovel was riding was driven by Wesley Woodhouse, 18. It collided with a truck driven by Thomas Myers, 50, also of Costa Mesa.

Young Scovel was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Scovel, Costa Mesa.

Church Leaders to Attend Conclave

The Rev. Mr. Warner will be in daily attendance at the meet. Two delegates from every Methodist church South of Modesto and all those in Arizona will have delegates there.

It is expected that more than 600 ministers and laymen will be at the meet. More than 3000 other persons are expected.

Driver in Court Has Bloody Face

Harry L. Hicks, 67, Santa Ana pumper, had a bloody face this morning when he was arraigned before Justice Kenneth S. Morrison on a charge of drunken driving.

Hicks, according to Officer Ralph Inge of the California Highway Patrol, who made the arrest, drove off the road at Grand avenue and Fruit street and sheared off two orange trees with his car. Justice Morrison gave Hicks until tomorrow to decide how to plead to the charge. Bail was set at $250.

MORE ABOUT COURT BILL

rich, Illinois; McGill, Kansas; Pittman, Nevada; Hughes, Delaware; and Ashurst, Arizona, all Democrats; and Norris, Nebraska Independent.

Senator Hatch (D., N. M.), who signed the majority report, said in a separate statement that the arguments were against the bill in its present form.

Hatch's Statement "It has been my thought," he said, "that these can be met by proper amendments to the bill; that with sufficient safeguards, it can be made a constructive piece of legislation."

Never before has a Roosevelt bill come from committee with such a denunciation as the committee's report. It was prepared chiefly by three Democrats—Senators King, McCarran and O'Mahoney.

They recommended rejection of the bill for these "primary reasons": "The bill does not accomplish any one of the objectives for which it was originally offered."

"It applies force to the judiciary and in its initial and ultimate effect would undermine the independence of the courts."

Other Criticisms "It violates all precedents in history of our government and would in itself be a dangerous precedent for the future."

"The theory of the bill is in direct violation of the spirit of the American constitution and its employment would permit abrogation of the constitution without the people's consent or approval; it undermines the protection our constitutional system gives to minorities and is subversive of the rights of individuals."

"It tends to centralize the federal district judiciary by the power of assigning judges from one district to another at will."

"It tends to expand political control over the judicial departments by adding to the powers of the legislative and executive departments respecting the judiciary."

Attacking President Roosevelt's message recommending the bill, the senators said:

"It should be pointed out here that a substantial portion of the message was devoted to a discussion of the evils of conflicting decisions by inferior courts on constitutional questions and to the alleged abuse of the power of injunction by some of the federal courts."

"These matters, however, have no bearing on the bill before us. It contains neither a line nor a sentence dealing with either of these problems."

"They described the bill as 'totally inadequate' to meet any of the other objectives of the President. Denying that it would relieve congestion in the courts, they said:

"The facts indicate that the courts with the oldest judges have the best records in the disposition of business. It follows, therefore, that since there are comparatively few aged justices in service and these are among the most efficient on the bench, the age of sitting judges does not make necessary an increase of personnel to handle the business of the courts."

Raps "Flying Squadron" The report opposed the bill's provision for assigning judges to crowded districts instead of legislating directly to provide more judges where needed. This, it said, would create "a flying squadron of itinerant judges appointed for districts and circuits where they are not needed to be transferred to other parts of the country for judicial service."

Adding that this would be "a violation of the salutary American custom that all public officials should be citizens of the jurisdiction in which they serve," the report suggested the system would make it possible to select "particular judges to try particular cases."

The report, turning to the President's argument for the "infusion of new blood," said the bill "sets up insuperable obstacles to the 'constant' operation of that principle."

"Invasion of Power" It argued that once the new judges were appointed and had proved old on the court, they could not be replaced except by a new law further expanding the court or by a constitutional amendment.

The committee majority analyzed past changes in the size of the court, arguing that "this bill is an invasion of judicial power such as has never before been attempted in this country."

In regard to an independent judiciary, the committee said "reduction of the degree of the supremacy of law means an increasing enlargement of the degree of personal government."

Cite Records The committee said only four statutes enacted by the Roosevelt administration had been declared unconstitutional with three or more dissenting votes and only 11 statutes or parts of law altogether had been invalidated out of 2699.

"Inconvenience and even delay in the enactment of legislation is not a heavy price to pay for our system," it argued.

"Constitutional democracy moves forward with certainty rather than speed."

Noting repeated instances in which the supreme court had protected individual liberties, the report said they would have been impossible without an independent judiciary, and that the bill involved every protection in the "bill of rights."

15 INJURED IN TRAFFIC MISHAPS

Death hovered near on Orange county highways over the week-end, but passed the county without fatal results.

A number of persons, however, narrowly escaped death in a series of accidents that resulted in injuries to 15 persons.

A party of four motorists, bound for homes in San Diego, miraculously escaped death and serious injury at 3 a. m. today when their car plunged headlong into a tree about three miles south of Irvine or the 101 highway.

Complete Wreck California Highway Patrol officers reported that the car was completely demolished, with floorboards, seat cushions, parts of the frame and other portions of the car strewn all over the road from the terrific force of the impact.

O. R. Scroggins, 2556 C street, San Diego, was reported to have fallen asleep at the wheel. Mrs. Scroggins, Lillian Moore, Sixth and Date streets, San Diego, and a sailor known only as "Bob" were in the car. The Orange County Ambulance service rushed the four to Capistrano, where Dr. Paul Esslinger treated them for minor cuts and bruises.

A sedan registered to Paul Brown, 608 Spurgeon street, Santa Ana, collided with a parked coupe belonging to Kenneth Ashford, 919 West First, Santa Ana, at 1013 North Main street last night at 8 o'clock. Ashford's coupe was hit so hard it was rammed into a sedan in front of it, belonging to E. E. Russell, 1626 East Chapman avenue, Orange.

In the meantime, police are seeking to establish who was driving the car registered to Paul Brown. It is believed, police said, that Brown was driving the car himself. But whoever the driver was disappeared immediately after the wreck. It was reported that a truck whisked away in a car. Police are holding the Brown car.

Tom Ursua, 617 Central avenue, Delhi, was charged with drunk driving, following an accident at First and Sullivan streets at 11:21 p. m. Saturday night when his car he was driving crashed into one driven by Mrs. William Fraser, 209 Monroe street, Midway City. Police reported that Ursua's car was going east on First street on the wrong side of the road. Passengers in the Fraser car, Miss Anna Frazer, Miss Eleanor Johns and Miss Jean Frazer, Miss Johns and Miss Frazer suffered from cuts, shock and bruises, it was reported.

Baby Hurt Cars driven by Sorella Marie Sojo, San Leandro, and E. J. Gasco, address yet unknown, collided at Fifth and Harbor boulevard Sunday at 5:15 p. m. The small baby of Gasco was slightly hurt.

Three persons were hurt, but not seriously, in a wreck Saturday at 5 p. m. when cars driven by Frank Rukorino, Whittier, and Grace McGuire, Huntington Beach, collided at Huntington Beach boulevard and West First street. Those injured were Mary Jean Weidmann, Mary Ellen Weidmann and Marjorie Weidmann, all passengers of the Rukorino car.

Cars driven by Jack Frederick, route 2, Box 276, Santa Ana, and Robert Knapp, 418 South Illinois, Anaheim, came together last night on Main street when the Knapp car was reportedly pulling out from the curbing. Property damage only resulted.

Minor Accidents No one was hurt when a car driven by A. C. Sorenson, Eagle Rock, collided with a car, the driver of which refused to give him his name. The accident took place yesterday morning at Main and La Veta streets.

Three other persons, involved in minor accidents within city limits of Orange county communities over the week-end, were given first aid treatment at the Orange County hospital. They were Norma Perez and Mary Johnson, San Bernardino, and Mrs. W. L. Wimberly, Anaheim.

Seven Policemen Capture Mole At Tustin Home

The seven policemen who responded set guard at all the doors and then made a thorough search of the basement, coming up in a few minutes with the culprit, a mole, which they had captured in a glass jar.

AFFIRM NEGRO'S 75-YEAR TERM

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—The Alabama supreme court affirmed today a 75-year sentence for Heywood Patterson, one of the nine negro defendants in the "Scottsboro" case.

Patterson, charged with attacking Mrs. Victoria Price aboard a freight train in March, 1931, was given the sentence at decatur, Ala., in January, 1936.

It was his fourth conviction in the case, but the first in which the death sentence was not imposed.

Attorneys for Patterson announced the case would be taken to the United States supreme court for a third time. Convictions have been set aside by the high tribunal on two previous appeals.

Patterson is the only one of the nine defendants under sentence. The others are awaiting trial.

County hospital. They were Norma Perez and Mary Johnson, San Bernardino, and Mrs. W. L. Wimberly, Anaheim.

FRENCH GIVE MONETARY WARNING

PARIS, (AP)—Paul Bastid, French minister of commerce, warned Great Britain and the United States today that France might be forced to abandon the tripartite monetary agreement unless they meet France in lowering tariff barriers.

His speech was made at the opening session of the International Exchange Congress and followed the raising of the Bank of France's discount rate to 6 per cent.

At the same time, Premier Leon Blum called a special session of his cabinet to find a way out of the financial tangle.

Pleading for "simultaneous collective efforts" to revive world exchanges, Bastid said France had the "impression" her action in lowering tariffs and easing the import quota system last fall had been strictly unilateral.

"The result has been a campaign in France for the return to protection and abandonment of liberal measures," Bastid said.

Financial leaders interpreted the speech as a slam against Britain's failure to lower empire protective tariffs and as a bid to the United States and Great Britain to stand by France in her present financial troubles.

CHARGE DEPUTY AS SPEEDER

Deputy sheriff cards mean nothing to Officer V. G. Wolfe in Orange.

When James F. McQuade, 26, of 3022 Prospect, La Crescenta, flashed such a card from Glendale on Officer Wolfe yesterday, the Orange traffic officer went right on with his arresting business.

He was mad, anyway. McQuade, he claimed, roared through a 25-mile zone in Orange at 55 miles per hour. Wolfe set out after the asserted deputy, lost him in traffic and finally made his capture near the county hospital, where he said McQuade was traveling better than 70 miles per hour.

McQuade had been drinking, but was not intoxicated, Wolfe reported.

An unhappy session before City Judge L. F. Coburn has been arranged for next Friday.

FORMER PUPILS FEE ZELIAN

Once again those former Tustin children, now grown men and women, who went to school to John J. Zelian, pioneer school man, back in the final years of the last century, gathered in reunion Sunday to talk over their school days and the experiences that have filled their lives in the intervening decades.

This year's reunion, a repetition of those held each spring for the last 16 years, had Irvine park as its setting. The former students, together with their families, made up a party of 300 to greet their guest of honor, who headed the Tustin schools from 1889 to 1897.

No set program marked the day, but greetings were brought to Zelian from many towns of Southern California to which his former pupils have scattered. Among the out-of-town "alumni" returning for the day were Nelson Holderman, now commandant of the veterans' home at Napa, who brought his family, and Judge Charles Ballard of Los Angeles. Others from Santa Ana, Tustin, and all towns of Orange county participated in the gathering.

Estate Settles Fight Over Stock

Executors of the estate of James W. Newell today asked sanction of the superior court here on a compromise they have reached with Julian S. Cohen, New York broker, over mining stock he previously asserted was misappropriated from the estate.

The petition was filed by Lilla F. Newell and Laura Esther Newell Lander, who previously had started suit against Cohen to recover 128,344 shares of California Gold Lode Mines company, which they valued at $15,000.

They stated today that Cohen has placed the stock in escrow and will return $12,000 if they will allow him to keep 15,000 shares.

The two executors declared in their action against Cohen that Newell had turned the stock over to Cohen to sell for them and that after Newell's death Cohen had refused to return the securities.

Police Reports

The following information was taken from records of the Santa Ana police department:

Mrs. Hazel Rehm, 1102 1/2 Cypress avenue, reported to police at midnight Saturday that a prowler who has frequented the neighborhood for the past two weeks was again in the vicinity.

An anonymous telephone call informed police Sunday morning that chickens at 605 West Second street were ruining the yards of neighbors. Police reported that Mrs. Mary Knox, owner of the chickens, said she had but two chickens and would dispose of them.

A lost girl, who couldn't tell officers where she lived, was brought to the police station yesterday afternoon by officers who found her at Highland and Broadway. She was Mildred Cooper, who returned to her home at 1417 South Parton.

R. C. Bottie, 1329 West Ninth, wanted his bees back, so he called police Saturday afternoon to help him. He said the bees were on a walnut tree in the yard of Mrs. Ted Cook, 1321 West Ninth, and she wouldn't let him take his bees from the tree.

Mrs. Cook reported that Mrs. Cook wanted and let Bottie have his bees.

Boys who couldn't wait until the Fourth of July to shoot their fireworks were warned by officers Saturday afternoon when they were found with the fireworks in the playgrounds of St. Joseph's school, Fruit and Lacy. The boys promised to save the rest of their firecrackers for the Fourth.

The following reports were on file today with the Orange county sheriff's office:

Ascension Sanchez, 25, of Tia Juana, was booked at the jail on charges of violating federal immigration laws.

W. G. Mullins, Stanton, reported that 15 chickens were stolen from his yard Friday night.

Walter Bozeman, 2008 Halladay street, Santa Ana, reported a peeping Tom active near his home Sunday night.

Twelve chickens were stolen from the O. S. Ball place at Yorba Linda Saturday night.

Woman Suicide Refused to Be Burden to Others

She believed in euthanasia, and so she walked out into the sea, to relieve herself of the burden of life, and to relieve others of what she thought was the burden of caring for her.

Thus was explained today the mystery of the drowning of a well-dressed elderly woman, whose body was found at the end of the Huntington Beach pier Saturday morning.

She was Miss Nina D. Mosher, 66, of 1901 Wilshire boulevard, a former nurse. Identification was established today by the coroner's office.

It was learned that Miss Mosher had taken a train from Los Angeles to Huntington Beach, and a letter to her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Mosher, of San Gabriel, explained away the mystery of her death.

In her letter, it was reported that she said she approved of euthanasia, or doing away with oneself if usefulness to society is at an end. She didn't want to be a burden to others. She had been in ill health, and so took what she thought was the best way out.

When the body was found, the lapel of the woman's coat was adorned with a corsage of artificial daisies.

No inquest will be held.

Calumpit Camp at Flag Day Rites

Calumpit fife and drum corps and the members of Calumpit camp and auxiliary, United Spanish War veterans, and their families, attended Flag day exercises and an all-day picnic staged Sunday at Ganesha park, Pomona, the Citrus Belt U. S. W. V. club.

Calumpit fife and drum corps took part in the exercises which were attended by 1000 persons from all parts of the Southland.

Next meeting of the Citrus Belt U. S. W. V. club will be held

Townsend News, Views

By WALTER R. ROBB

Remember the following: The Rev. Joe Nation and a turkey dinner at 6:30 this evening at the Fullerton No. 1 club in the Ebell club building; Assemblyman Clyde Watson and Grant Henderson, speakers at Orange club No. 1 at 7:30 this evening; Santa Ana club No. 2 in regular business session at 7:30 this evening in Townsend hall, West Fourth street; La Habra club No. 1 in a business session in the Masonic hall, presided over by E. E. Proud, district board member, at 7:30 tonight; and last, but also important, is the fact that it will be Townsend time from 8:45 to 9 p. m. over KJH and KVOE. There probably will be some late news on this broadcast concerning the happenings at the Chicago and Washington headquarters.

The Orange County Ladies' Townsend auxiliary which met for the first time last Thursday afternoon in Santa Ana Townsend hall, elected the following as temporary officers for the next three weekly meetings to occur during June: Mrs. J. Elta Bryant, 2063 Newport road, Costa Mesa, president; Mrs. Ota Everett, 443 East Amerigo, Fullerton, vice-president; Mrs. Ethel Long, 906 West First street, Santa Ana, secretary; and Loretta Lytle, Yorba Linda, treasurer. The auxiliary group will meet again at 11 o'clock Thursday morning, June 17, in the West Fourth street Santa Ana Townsend hall. A pot-luck dinner will be served at 12 noon. Each lady is asked to bring a covered dish and sandwiches. It has been arranged that the ladies who have birthdays in June and July will do the serving. Every lady is asked to bring some other lady with her. Last week there were 45 ladies present. The auxiliary is planning, on another Townsend hazard to be held late in the year, the bazaar recently held, grossed over $1000, according to reports given the writer. That should make every Townsend club in the county want to participate in the next one.

It has been announced that "The Mountaineers of Possum Trot Hollow" will give a one and one-half hour entertainment program in Santa Ana Townsend hall, 509 West Fourth street, next Thursday evening, beginning at 7:30. The group is being brought here from Pomona by Santa Ana club No. 3, Dr. U. G. Littell, president of the club, having been instrumental in securing the organization. Last Thursday evening this club had a dynamic Townsend speaker, A. C. Hansen, from Riverside.

The Costa Mesa Townsend club's pot-luck dinner held last Friday evening in the Woman's club building was a success. The writer knows because he arrived on the scene early enough to observe the good time enjoyed and the large group. He saw folks there from many points in the county, including an unusually large delegation from Santa Ana club No. 12. Mrs. K. C. Burdick of Costa Mesa presided over the mass meeting that followed the dinner at which the Rev. W. H. Phillo of Los Angeles was the principal speaker.

Musical entertainment was presented previous to the speech. Two soprano solos by Mrs. Ruth Elise, accompanied by Mrs. William Cooper, both of Costa Mesa, were well rendered. The Rev. Mr. Phillo also contributed a solo to the tune "We Will Keep the Home Fires Burning," with words arranged in connection with Townsend sentiment. Prof. Vladimir Lenski, director of violin music in Southwestern College of Music of Los Angeles and also of the Anaheim Conservatory of Music, then was presented. He in turn presented Miss Charlotte Stafford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Stafford, 1229 West First street, Santa Ana, one of his talented pupils. On May 27 this young lady won first prize in the adult group in the Elstedoff contest held in Los Angeles. She also recently contested at San Dimas, conducted by the Brothers church, and won first laurels there also. The audience encored the young lady but Prof. Lenski responded for her.

Turner Watson, former medical student held in connection with theft of nearly a quarter million dollars from Mrs. Blous, it was disclosed today. OFFICE UNDERELLA by Nelly Graf

CHAPTER I
PATTY LOU PALMER, seated at her desk, apparently busy typing, was in reality giving only half her attention to the work before her. With the other half of her mind, she was considering a daring plan. She would do it! She absolutely would! She didn't care what Mardell Gray might say. She was tired of being nothing but an office drudge. Oh, it was all right to be competent and conscientious, but she wanted to get some fun out of life. Too shy and good-natured, she knew she was too easily imposed on. "Patty Lou will do it," was becoming an office slogan, with the result that, time and again, extra work had kept her overtime. It wasn't the extra work she minded but that, while she was still toiling at the office, the other girls were dashing off to meet "dates." She never had any dates, and she always had her nose so close to the grindstone that it never seemed to occur to any of the girls to invite her on any of the parties they talked so much about. And now, tonight, nearly all the girls were going to the opening of the dazzling new Riverview Inn. How she would love to go!

It was when she had heard Mardell Gray say to Pamela Richey, "I have to get girls for two fellows for Riverview tonight," that the idea had popped into her head. Two men with no girls! Dared she go to Mardell and suggest herself as one of the needed girls?

Mardell Gray, the office manager in this branch of the National Insurance Company, was Patty Lou's ideal of feminine beauty and chic. She was tall, slender, handsome and poised. Every man in the office—from Mr. Blount, the general manager, down to the snub-nosed office boy—had come under her spell.

However, though Patty Lou admired and envied Mardell, she was terrified of her—for Mardell, when she chose, could wisher you with her cool, biting sarcasm. Had she the courage to brave Mardell's contempt by asking to be included in the Riverview party tonight? Then, Patty Lou remembered what her grandmother had said only last night: "Honey, you're nineteen and pretty. Why don't you ever have any beaux? Course, I know that, being brought up by your old granny, you've been kind of sheltered up to now, but there must be a lot of nice young men in the office." Patty Lou had mumbled, "I don't care about boys..." Granny had looked at her out of shrewd, bright old eyes, and had said, "Tut, tut, child! Not like boys! Every girl does..."

Patty Lou's thoughts were interrupted as she saw Mardell rise from her desk and, followed by Pamela Richey and Alice Carr, start down the hall toward the rest room. Now was her chance! Impulsively, Patty Lou jumped up and raced after them. She was breathless when she reached the rest room. Without pausing to consider, for fear she might lose her courage, she walked right up to Mardell.

"Mardell, I—I heard you say you had to find girls for two men tonight," I mean..." She stopped in confusion. Mardell's dark eyes narrowed. "So you want me to get you a boy friend?" she drawled. "Why—why, yes, You see, I can't—that is, I don't know any one and..."

Alice, will pick up little Miss 1890 at her home and bring her with you and Chet. By that time, I'll have Dale in tow, and I'll just ease Vern off onto that simperton."

"It's a shame," Alice began. "She asked for it, didn't she?" Mardell's tone was sharp. "Of—of course," Alice agreed. SHE changed the conversation to a less dangerous topic. "Speaking of Dale Northcutt, his father is head of the Northcutt Construction Company, the firm slated to get the job of building the Greenwood Dam and Spillway. Chet has to write the bond for it. He's been very anxious about it."

Chet Brownell and Alice had been sweethearts almost ever since Chet had joined the National Insurance Company's staff as a bond writer. "Just why is he so anxious about this particular bond?" asked Mardell. Alice flushed as she answered. "Chet has had a streak of bad luck lately, but with this... If he writes that bond, we can get married. But it isn't just that. He's staking everything on the premium, with its nice commission." Mardell laughed. "I'd never marry a bond writer for an insurance company, Alice," she said. "Why don't you be on the lookout for someone who amounts to something. Such as Dale Northcutt. I don't mind admitting that I'd give my eye teeth to land a guy like Dale."

"But I thought you and Vern—" "Don't be silly!" Mardell cut in. "Vern is useful. In fact, he introduced me to Dale. You see, Dale's firm buys a lot of cement from the Solid Company, where Vern works. It was Vern who asked Dale to go to Riverview tonight with our crowd. And he'll be without a girl! Is that a break?"

Meanwhile, back at her desk, Patty Lou was writing "Yours very truly" as Chet Brownell finished dictating a letter to the home office of the National on the Greenwood Dam matter. "That letter's important—darned important! Get it out first."

Patty Lou nodded and smiled. Nothing was really important except that she had a date tonight. A date! Oh, how she hoped that the man Mardell picked out for her would be attractive! She trembled in happy anticipation...

NAME CHANGING IDEA SPREADS

SOUTH PASADENA. (AP)—The name-changing fever that Culver City began has swept over this community. Dr. Lorenzo D. Whiting is circulating petitions asking that South Pasadena be known otherwise. The town ought to develop an individuality apart from Pasadena, he said. It might do this nicely under the name of "San Pascual," Dr. Lorenzo feels.

Seek to Restore Sight to Infant 'Potential Genius'

DES MOINES. (AP)—Surgeons at Mercy hospital announced Carol Lynn Rowe, three-year-old "potential genius," underwent an operation to restore her sight Saturday. Carol Lynn, blind since birth, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth W. Rowe of Creston, Ia. She attracted wide attention when she mastered a vocabulary of 750 words at the age of 21 months. The operation was for the removal of a blood clot from the optic nerve at the base of the brain. Doctors believe the blood clot attracted the nerve, preventing Carol Lynn from seeing. Relieving the pressure of the clot they hope will give her sight. It may be months, doctors said, before she can be definitely assured whether the operation is a success.

ORDERS SON TO RETURN DEED

Superior Judge James L. Allen has issued orders for William P. von Hasseln of Los Angeles to return a deed to a Santa Ana service station to his mother, Mrs. Therese C. Patton of Santa Ana. Von Hasseln did not appear to contest the action in which Mrs. Patton asked for cancellation of a deed to Von Hasseln and his brother, Gus von Hasseln of Santa Ana. The mother said she delivered duplicate deeds to the two sons on May 6, 1932, with the understanding the deeds were to be void only if the sons agreed to pay the upkeep of the property. She said Gus von Hasseln returned his deed immediately but that William refused to return his. Sharpless Walker, Santa Ana attorney, represented Mrs. Patton.

Bus Depot in New Location Tuesday

Bus travelers will find it necessary to arise a few minutes earlier beginning tomorrow, because they'll have to walk a few blocks further for choice seats on their favorite Motor Transit, Greyhound or Laguna cars. Santa Ana's bus headquarters, which has been located for a number of years at Spurgeon and Third streets, is being moved to the Pacific Electric depot at 426 East Fourth street, it was announced today. Starting Tuesday all buses will leave that point instead of from the old location.

NURSES TO BE AT AIR SHOW

Paul Mantz and a bevy of nurses will drop out of the sky at the big air show to be staged here June 20 at the Martin airport. Mantz, technical advisor for Amelia Earhart, will bring the Aerial Nurses' corps here by plane. The registered nurses will be on duty in case of emergency, according to Dale Deckert, chairman of the chamber of commerce committee arranging for the event. They are the same nurses who were on duty at the National Air Races in Los Angeles. The event also will be featured by the first public showing of the new Beechcraft single and twin-engine model planes, under supervision of Howard Batt, pilot. The Beechcraft ship is an entirely new cabin monoplane. It will augment more than $1,000,000 worth of other private planes which will be on display. Many of the planes will be put through rigid tests, an unusual feature for an air show.

'God, Preserver Of Man,' Science Church Topic

"God the Preserver of Man" was the subject of the lesson-sermon on Sunday in all branches of The Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. The golden text was from the Psalms: "In God is my salvation and my glory: the rock of my strength, and my refuge, is in God." The lesson-sermon included the words of Paul to the Corinthians: "There hath no temptation taken you but such as is common to man; but God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation also make a way to escape, that ye may be able to bear it." Among the passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, were the statements: "Suffer no claim of sin or of sickness to grow upon the thought. Dismiss it with an abiding conviction that it is illegitimate, because you know that God is no more the author of sickness than He is of sin. You have no law of His to support the necessity either of sin or sickness, but you have divine authority for denying that necessity and healing the sick."

All Out! Airplane Breaks Fence

This army plane tried a racing landing at Empire City track in New York—because of poor visibility—but Capt. William Hooker of Miller field, the "jockey," overjudged his mount and went through the fence into the bushes. Nothing much was damaged except the fence, as this air shot shows.

FIVE DIE IN L. A. PLANE CRASHES

Three Victims Killed
When Craft Loses
Wing in Loop

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Two plane crashes and the death of five aerial "joy riders" in the Los Angeles area Sunday spurred drastic enforcement of flying rules today.

J. S. Marriott, supervising inspector of the federal bureau of aeronautics, asked Washington headquarters for men to handle increasing air traffic here, and warned airports against violations by pilots.

Three occupants of an old model biplane were killed when it lost a wing during a loop-the-loop above San Marino and plunged 500 feet to a vacant field.

Woman in House Hurt

The bodies of Frank Bannister, 19, Monterey Park; Edward Morris Patrick, 23, and Fred Lobb, 29, both of Pasadena, were extricated from the tangled wreckage. Lobb, at the controls, barely avoided crashing into a house. His cutting the ignition prevented a fire.

A small training plane carrying Jack B. Nauert, 25, and Joseph Leon Taylor, Jr., 22, of Los Angeles, fell in a tailspin six blocks from its hangar at Grand Central Air Terminal, Glendale.

The rented craft struck nose first on the sidewalk in front of a house. A flying piece of metal hit Mrs. Ben D. Small, seated in her living room. Young Taylor either jumped or fell from the plane, striking the chimney of the house, and was almost decapitated.

Lands on Street

The two fatal mishaps were preceded by a hazardous forced landing in a busy San Marino street in which Gordon K. Hazeltine, 30, sportsman filer of La Jolla, and his secretary, Ruth Dailey, escaped unhurt.

Running out of gasoline, Hazeltine set his plane down near the city hall. After police cleared Huntington drive of traffic for several hundred feet, the pilot used it as a runway for his takeoff.

In addition to the twins, three other children have been born to the Fields.

Field, who is 37, is a road laborer. Mrs. Field is 39.

Garden Secrets

By WILLIS CADWALLADER of Blanding Nurseries

"Every rose has its thorn." During the early spring months, when the garden is giving forth all the beauties of nature, there may appear the first visible signs of mildew.

This mildew attack need not be as serious as one might imagine, but regularity of treatment is essential.

Mildew is a white, powdery coating appearing on leaves. This coating is made up of chains of small colorless spores by means of which the mildew reproduces.

Mildew is unable to support life in itself, consequently it has to live on the life-giving juices of other plants. It thrusts its long hairlike roots deeply into the plant tissues, after which it can seldom be killed, but it is possible to keep it from spreading.

Each spore from the powdery substance on the surface of the leaf is capable of striking root and growing in another location.

Continued spraying, with fungicides, or dusting, will dry these spores up and prevent a continued spread.

Mildew is always present in the soil and this makes it exceedingly important for every gardener to be prepared for an attack as soon as new growth appears early in the spring.

The rose is the plant that gives most trouble, but a careful watch should be exercised in the case of anemones, delphinium, and sweet peas.

Mildew Control
General good care of plants is really better than any cure for mildew. A good, healthy, vigorous plant is quite resistant to the attacks of the disease. If plant life has conditions favorable to its growth, mildew will not bother it. It is only when plants become chilled, or something interferes with the normal action, that they are susceptible.

Mildew will thrive in the cold damp seasons because this is favorable for the growth of mildew and unfavorable for the growth of plants. Hence the trouble in early spring.

The vitality of the plant is lowered, making it possible for the disease fungi to take hold. A free circulation of air and sunshine all about the plant does much to overcome this condition.

All fungicides depend on sulphur as a curative. It is possible to obtain these as a spray or as a powder, to be dusted on the plants by means of a gun or by a cloth bag best with a stick.

The use of nine parts sulphur to one part arsenate of lead is recommended over the pure sulphur, because the arsenate of lead tends to prevent the lumping of the sulphur and to increase the adhesive qualities. It also acts as an insecticide against the leaf-chewing insects.

Commercial lime sulphur as a spray has greater adhesive qualities than the dusts, but it has the objectionable feature of staining the foliage. There are other commercial spray preparations on the market that do not discolor the foliage and may be an advantage to the small garden owner.

In any event, regardless of the material used, mildew control must start as soon as the leaf buds commence to break, and continue on throughout the season at intervals of ten days or two weeks. By treating regularly, all new growth

SARDINE WAR CONTINUED BY STATE

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP)—No cessation of hostilities in the 10-years war between the California fish and game commission and floating sardine canneries was seen today by Herbert C. Davis, commission executive officer.

Davis discounted rumors of likely settlement which arose after two high seas sardine reduction plants applied for 1937-38 permits.

"These are only two of the nine vessels operating unregulated and unlicensed," Davis said. "The rest still refused to abide by state allotments and to pay the 50-cent tonnage tax."

Those submitting voluntarily are the S. S. Brookdale and S. S. Monitor, operated by the Gardena Packing company and Interstate Fish Reduction company, respectively, of San Francisco.

The commission has warned of sardine depletion if the catch is unregulated. The operators insist there is no depletion and contend the state refused them allotments and investments.

The legislature failed to pass a proposed bill requiring the floating plants to submit to commission jurisdiction. The vessels usually operate, Davis said, beyond the three-mile limit just north of the Golden Gate.

U. S. MAY NOT BORROW FOR NEXT YEAR

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Fiscal officials announced that, after six years of heavy borrowing, the government may operate in the next fiscal year without going to the money market for new cash.

With $800,000,000 from June borrowing flowing into the treasury cash box, these authorities said it is possible the treasury will have only the refinancing of obligations coming due after July 1.

They said that taxes under the social security act and sales of baby bonds are expected to send a steady stream of cash into government coffers.

Security collections are available for spending. Against these receipts, the treasury issues government obligations to special unemployment and old age reserve funds.

The government thus may borrow, in effect, about $100,000,000 in the next fiscal year from future beneficiaries instead of from investors at large.

From baby bond sales, the treasury will reap about $500,000,000 next year if buying continues at the present rate.

EXPLORERS OFF ON BIG HUNT

NEW YORK, (AP)—Bent on a study of Indian life and minus a single razor blade, five explorers have left here for the wilds of South America.

Sailing on the Pennsylvania were Dr. Harold E. Davis, professor of history at Hiram college, Hiram, Ohio, and William C. Morrow of Swarthmore, Pa., and Cleveland, co-leaders of the expedition. With them were Robert T. Petley, Akron, Ohio; Robert Heartwell, Painesville, Ohio, and Thomas W. Wolfe, Cleveland.

Morrow said he planned to collect and classify tropical fish and fauna for the Academy of Natural Science at Philadelphia which is sponsoring the trip with Hiram college.

Wolfe said they didn't plan to shave again until they left South America. Beards protect the face from insect bites, he said.

He said they would debark at Balboa, stop temporarily at Barro Colorado to study fish, proceed to Callao, Peru, and then go by rail to Lake Titicaca, where they will cross the Andes on burros.

Canoe exploration of the Amazon river will be their main object, and they will return Sept. 13.

JUDGE GUARDS HIS WORKERS

KANSAS CITY, (AP)—Armed with a borrowed shotgun, Circuit Judge Allen C. Southern is guarding a remodeling crew on a house he owns in Independence, Kansas City suburb, from threats of violence he says were voiced by about 15 men he presumed were sympathizers with the Kansas City building strike.

"These men want to work," Judge Southern said today, "and they (strike sympathizers) can't come here on my property and interfere."

MacLeish, Prize Poet, Also Is Whiz at His Earthly Job

ARCHIBALD MacLEISH
Sees the World From a Box Seat

By CHARLES NORMAN
AP Feature Service Writer

NEW YORK.—In contrast to the long-haired bard of old who despised things of this world—like a little hard work, for example—Archibald MacLeish, Pulitzer prize poet, finds communing with the Muses no bar to holding down a job.

He can tackle a statistician's report and whittle it to its basic content of facts and human equations; write an exhaustive survey of technological unemployment; differentiate the soil structure of the southwest; and present, from first-hand study, the economic setup of Japan.

Like Business Man
He does these things for "Fortune," dollar-an-issue magazine of big business, for $15,000 a year.

In other respects, too, MacLeish differs from the poet "with a lily in his hand," which Gilbert and Sullivan satirized. In brown tweed coat and gray flannel trousers, he looks like a young business man about town ready for a week-end jaunt into the country or a game of tennis after work.

Light brown hair falls in a wispy over a sheer cliff of forehead. Hazel-colored eyes glow with an intellectual intensity as he talks. His jaw seems hewn out of granite.

Writes For 'New Masses'
He calls his job "a good box seat for seeing the world as it is." His view takes in a sizeable terrain, for occasionally his name appears in "The New Masses," communist weekly.

"Actually," he explains, "except for format and price, there is no discrepancy in what I write for 'Fortune' and what I contribute to the 'Masses.' They're all fact-finding pieces which tell their own tale."

His poetry also reflects the world his researches have disclosed, and deals with people against their political and economic background.

Awed by Thomas Mann
Awe and admiration fill his voice as he talks about Thomas Mann, exiled German novelist.

"I believe," he says, "that what Mann declared here recently—the destiny of man presents itself to our time in a political guise—is true."

"The artist today cannot ignore the issues of his day. But what is he going to do about them? He can't join the Silver Shirts—obviously not. And if he can't ignore the issues, and is not going to take sides, he proceeds as an artist to project his views through his work. Thomas Mann is the supreme example of this."

MacLeish is 45, looks younger, is married and has three children. He was born in Glencoe, Ill., and attended Harvard Law school. From law he turned to poetry.

Garrett Buys Out
German Jewelry

P. M. German, who for the past 12 years has conducted a jewelry business in the Grand Central Market, has disposed of his stock and will seek the rest he feels he is entitled to. The new proprietor is R. M. Garrett, who comes to Santa Ana from Savannah, Ill. He is a jeweler of more than 20 years experience, knows the art of setting diamonds, is thorough in watch repairing, and fully acquainted with jewelry merchandise. He will enlarge the stock and maintain a high-grade jewelry store. Mrs. Garrett and daughter accompany him to Santa Ana. Miss Garrett will enter high school here.

Gold is hoarded in India by all classes of people, as a reserve against famine, and to form a "marriage dot."

WOMEN MADE INVISIBLE
The invisible man is now a reality instead of a fictional character, according to an Italian scientist, who claims to have perfected a ray which makes people fade from sight. In Rome he described an experiment in which the ray was directed at two women engaged in conversation. Gradually they faded and disappeared, but their conversation continued to be audible. The effect is obtained by means of an electro-optical combination with the emanation of special electric rays similar to X-rays.

Ryder Cup Team Sails Wednesday

GULDAHL TOPS OPEN WITH 281 SCORE

Sam Snead Posts a 283 And Cruickshank 285 For Other Honors

NEW YORK. (AP)—Fresh from their latest record-smashing performance in the United States Open Golf championship, where Ralph Guldahl led the field home with the new low 72-hole aggregate of 281, America's crack professional brigade now aims to break the British "jinx" that has so far pursued them in Ryder Cup competition.

The 10-man team, including such sharpshooting newcomers as Guldahl, Sammy Snead and Byron Nelson, sails Wednesday. They will be joined abroad by Walter Hagen, non-playing captain and sent into action against a British team which includes the redoubtable Henry Cotton for the first time.

Wins Three of Five

So far the home team has had the edge in the Ryder Cup play, begun in 1927 at Worcester, Mass. The Americans have won three of the five series but they were beaten on both trips abroad, in 1929 and 1933.

It will not set up, as scoring conditions can hardly match those at Oakland Hills, where the sharpshooters took full advantage of perfect weather, extraordinary pace-making and the "breaks" to put on the greatest scoring show in the 41-year history of the U. S. Open championship.

In rapid succession during the final 36 holes Saturday, see Bobby Cruickshank, 24-year-old Ralph Guldahl and 25-year-old Ralph Guldahl took turns at shellingacking par and posting the leading score. Cruickshank, with a 67 and 72, registered the best performance of his career with a 285 that was good only for third money. Snead came along with a near record 283, in his first Open title tournament. Then Guldahl came from behind to win with 281, a score that licked par by seven strokes, beat his nearest rival by two, and clipped one shot from the tournament and world record set a year ago by Tony Manero at Baltusor, New Jersey.

Title May Mean Job

Guldahl had successive rounds of 71, 69, 72 and 69—par or better for every tour of Oakland Hills—has brought to a dazzling conclusion one of the grandest comebacks in golfing history. Down and almost "out" a year ago, wondering where meal money would come from for his wife and baby, Guldahl fought his way to the peak in one of the toughest of all competitive sports.

The $1000 he collected for the winner's share at Oakland Hills boosted his tournament earnings for this year alone to $5100. His title will mean at least $10,000 more, from various sources, and should lead to a lucrative club job. He entered the tournament as a free lance. His home is in Chicago, but he was born, Norwegian extraction.

Nine rural electrification projects will supply power and light to 5838 families in Missouri.

Parents of DiMaggio Diamond Trio

Baseball reports from three battle fronts keep this elderly couple busy. They are Mr. and Mrs. Dominic DiMaggio, parents of the Brothers DiMaggio—Vince, Joe, and Dominic of baseball fame. Vince, the oldest, is with the Boston Bees; Joe is one of the stars of the New York Yankees; and Dominic, only 19, is a sensational rookie with the San Francisco Seals.

WEST LEADS EAST, 69 TO 40

But N. Y. Nines Out in Front

By SID FEDER Associated Press Sports Writer

The second invasion by the American league's east and the Nation's west was over today, leaving both New York teams still in the driver's seat, but a set of very red faces generally throughout the Atlantic seaboard sector of the big time.

Although the biggest bust of all was a western club—Pittsburgh's collapsible Pirates—the just concluded swing in both leagues showed a balance of power through the West that spelled trouble in large doses for Manhattan's defending pennant holders.

Chicago Nines Set Pace

The victory column showed 37 triumphs for the American league's four western teams in their home stater, compared to 15 for the invading easterners. In the National loop, although the easterners were at home, they won only 25 games, to 32 for the touring troops.

Pacing the western outfits, Chicago's two teams, the Cubs and the White Sox—were each winning only a half game off the pace in their respective locales, with the St. Louis Cardinals coming up fast back of the Cubs, and the Detroit Tigers red hot after the younger circuit pace setters.

Mystery . . . The Giants won nine of 14 home starts, but how they did it is a secret no one knows. Their hitting is off; they're pitching in a groove; they've collected just 26 hits in their last 45 innings. Yesterday they were held to four hits by Peaches Davis to drop a doubleheader opener 5-1 to the Reds, but came back to take the nightcap, 6-2.

Crippled . . . The Yankee pitching staff is overworked through assorted ailments to Monte Pearson and Spurgeon Chandler, but the power hitting, particularly by Joe DiMaggio and Lou Gehrig, enabled them to nearly break even in the West. They walloped the Browns 16-9 in the opener yesterday, and battled to an 11-inning 8-all tie in the nightcap, with DiMaggio clouting three homers.

Clicking crew . . . The White Sox, in second division less than two weeks ago, won 12 of 14 at home, best record in the majors, by suddenly coming up with pitching to go with their heavy hitting. They closed out with a double win 9-4 and 3-2 over the Senators yesterday.

Cub Pitchers Recover

Back together again . . . Crippled by early-season injuries, the Cubs' crack pitching staff is all present once more, and they've brought with them one of the league's heaviest hitting attacks. They banged out 22 hits for a 10-8 opener win against the Phillies yesterday, then dropped the nightcap, 4-3.

Falling apart . . . The Pirates, leading the league 10 days ago, have lost nine of their last 11, now diving to fourth place. Yesterday Van Mungo and the newly acquired Freddy Fitzsimmons beat them twice as the Dodgers won, 6-2 and 4-1.

Pop-off pitcher . . . Dizzy Dean is keeping his mouth shut and producing so the Cards are coming back. Bob Weiland whipped the Bees 6-2 in yesterday's opener; then Dean pitched a five-hit, nine strikeout 1-0 shutout in the nightcap.

Home, sweet home . . . Put the Indians in Cleveland and they're tops. Send them on the road and they founder. . . They closed out their successful home stand with a double win over the punch-less Athletics, 2-1 and 2-0.

Comeback . . . Mickey Cochran's injury and ailments to first rank pitchers haven't stopped the Tigers. With Roxie Lawson, Tommy Bridges and Elden Auker turning in fine performances, they're back in third place. A 3-1 victory over the Red Sox wound up a .750 home stand yesterday.

Boiler-maker, favorite, set an early pace, but tired and finished out of the money. Lloyd Pan paid a good price of $14.80, $8.20 and $6.40.

Parker and Sabin will meet in the second round tomorrow.

Numa to Open Up

Realizing they would wrestle all week without deciding anything if they waged a defensive match, Numa yesterday came out and announced that he planned a whirlwind match determined to bring the question as to the better man.

TONIGHT'S PROGRAM

Dr. Len Hall vs. Leo (The Lion) Numa, two-out-of-three falls, one hour.

Cyclone Underhill vs. Hans Steinko, two-out-of-three falls, one hour.

George Wilson vs. Ad (Bomber) Herman, one fall, 30 minute time limit.

Juan Del Rio vs. Young Stecher, one fall to a finish.

to an end. Although he stands to lose by opening up, the "Lion Man" figures his youth and strength will play the deciding factor.

Dr. Hall has won over every man he has faced in the past during his tour of Europe and today not only boasts the California state championship but the European title as well.

A match that may prove the wildest of Hans Steinko's long and varied career precedes the Dr. Hall-Numa bout, when Steinko, still aroused over losing to Vincent Lopez in what he calls was a "double-cross," meets up with the arrogant New York city grappler, Walter "Cyclone" Underhill.

'Steinko Is Over-Rated'

The secondary feature is billed for three falls or less, with an hour time limit. Underhill, getting his first big chance, will be out to first big win, but he'll be out to batter down the big German, whom he claims is an "over-rated palooka." With Underhill out to make a battle of it, and Steinko still "nursing his German temper," the match should be a furious one.

George Wilson, former All-America football star, and one of the greatest football players ever developed on the coast, makes his bow in the special, meeting the veteran Ad (Bomber) Herman. The opener shows Young Stecher and Juan Del Rio in a one fall to a finish encounter.

Like the hero of a Horatio Alger novel, Sacramento's Solons have made good.

A year ago Pacific Coast fans wondered if the Solons were playing in the circuit. They had been in the cellar so long they were getting moldy. When they won a game it was an event.

It's the reverse today. The Senators lead the parade by two full games after taking five out of seven from the Oakland Aacorns who haven't won a series this year. San Diego kept its record of no series lost at home intact at the expense of the now second-place Seals.

Sacs Split With Oaks

In fact many things happened in the league last week. San Francisco being shoved out of first place was the most important. San Diego replaced Los Angeles in third place and Seattle by winning its series from last year's champion Portland Beavers pushed them out of fifth place.

Sacramento split a pair with the Oaks yesterday, bowing to "Wee Willie" Ludolph, the pitching mlikman, 2 to 1. Ludolph, who deserts his milk business to pitch for the Oaks on week-ends or when they play in California, limited the Solons to seven scattered hits. But in the second game the senators' heavy artillery went into action and pounded three Aacorn hurriers for 18 hits and won easily, 18 to 4. The nightcap was marked

Argument at Home Plate

The Seals claimed George Myatt, scoring on George McDonnald's fly to DiMaggio, failed to touch home plate. Hood held the lead and the war was on.

San Francisco's Missions came from behind to win the first game from the Angels, 8-7. It was their third straight win over Los Angeles in the series, but in the nightcap the Missions lost a heart-breaker, 1 to 0.

Seattle defeated Portland, 7 to 5, in the opener, but dropped the second contest, 5 to 2. In the first game Manager Bill Sweeney and Catcher Bill Cronin of the Beavers were ejected for protesting a decision and then in the third inning of the second game Sweeney was again ejected for the same reason.

Bon Fume, 2-year-old pride of J. C. Elliott of Newport Beach, was coupled with Bon Ivy as an entry at Agua Caliente yesterday, finishing second to Crooner Bing Crosby's Rocco over five furlongs in 1:00 flat. . . The Orange county colt, a frequent and impressive starter at Santa Anita last winter, was an even money favorite. . . Bon Ivy ran out of the money, in fifth place.

To refresh your memory—if it needs refreshing—Louis, the Detroit Destroyer who steps into a Chicago ring with Champion Jim Braddock a week from tomorrow night, was knocked out by Max Schmeling in the 12th round of their New York engagement June 19, 1937.

Schmeling, whose victory supposedly qualified him for a title fight with Braddock, but who has been given the "run-around" floored the Brown Bomber in the fourth round, blasted him into submission in the next few rounds, and ended the agony with a terrific right clout after 2 min. 29 sec. of the 12th. . . Louis went into the fight a 20 to 1 favorite.

Seven hundred policemen were required to quell an outbreak of shooting, stabbing and street fighting in Harlem, whose idol was crushed by the quiet, determined, confident German. . . Flutie fans who quickly gave 20 to 1 odds on the negro last summer met sufficient disappointment to prevent them from wagging too heavily next week on the colored clouter against Braddock, an under-rated boxer.

Bottom of the barrel: Harold (Shifty) Gears the "Louie Nevada" of New York softball. His 15-year record includes 48 no-hit games, not all of which have been recorded with his present teammates, the Kodak Park club of Rochester. . . Gears has the best pitching record on the books. Since 1922 he has won 613 out of 683 games, including 265 shutouts and a strike-out record of 10,522. . . "Daniel Boone" Savage, hill-billy wrestler who has been headlining Los Angeles Olympic programs and who is booked at the O. C. A. C. June 28, is an accomplished fisherman. The bewhiskered gentleman squirts tobacco juice on his bait "just for luck." . . Santa Clara is negotiating with the University of Arkansas' pass-slinging Razorbacks for a football game in San Francisco in 1938.

Cliffing schedules prevented the clubs from getting together this fall. . . Max Schmeling has spent $15,000 in trans-Atlantic crossings since coming to the United States to knock out Joe Louis last summer.

How long will Don Budge, our chief hope in the Davis cup series, remain an amateur? Not very long, we predict, if the Oakland red-head has seen these figures: Fred Perry, who won 29 matches and lost 32 on his recent professional tour, netted $91,355.54, and Vines was $34,195.20. The paid-to-play field, it seems, is too attractive.

7:30 o'clock—M. E. South vs. Grand Central Market.

8:30 o'clock—Montgomery Ward vs. Elks.

An opportunity to become co-leader of the Santa Ana City league presents itself tonight for Kenneth Miller's Elks, who battle the leading Montgomery Ward nine in the nightcap of a softball doubleheader at the Municipal bowl.

The feature will get under way shortly after 8:30 o'clock, following a brush-between the third-place Grand Central Market and the cellar-stationed South Methonists at 7:30. Both games will be free to the public.

Manager Miller released his No. 1 chucker, Joe Rapier, "for conduct detrimental to the interests of the City league," last week, but must rely upon Fred Cartwright or Ray Short against the Gene Hitt-Walt Jordan department store nine unless he covers a new hurler before game-time. Miller is said to be dickering for an outsider.

Lester Slaback's, Methodists, who haven't won a game in six starts, will face the southpaw slants of Armand Hanson, the cartoonist, in the curtain-raiser.

Thursday night's games: 7:30 o'clock—Commercial National Bank vs. M. E. South; 8:30 o'clock—Elks vs. Carpenters.

RIGGS DEFENDS 'CLAY' CROWN

CHICAGO. (AP)—Bobby Riggs of California, seeded No. 1, was scheduled to open defense of his national clay courts tennis singles title at River Forest Tennis club today.

Riggs opposed Henry Balaban of Chicago and was not expected to encounter trouble with the Illinois player. In yesterday's program, curtailed by rain, only one seeded player saw action. Martin Bushy of Miami, Fla., eliminated Lloyd Lloyd Buchanan of New York, 6-1, 6-1.

'35 Golden Gloves King And Cruiser Champion Perform Thursday

By KENNETH ADAMS

Swashbuckling sailors from Uncle Sam's battleships will line up on one side of the eight-bout card at the Orange County Athletic club Thursday night. It was announced today by Matchmaker George Stewart.

This announcement was hailed with considerable satisfaction by amateur fight fans of the county, who know from experience that the fighting gobs always make a great boxing show. Matchmaker Stewart completed arrangements this morning with Navy Trainer Jake Shagrie of the Navy Athletic field, Long Beach, to bring some of the navy's best sluggers to the 101 highway arena.

The headline attraction from the navy will be Willis Bailey, Golden Gloves middleweight champion in 1935, who holds a decision over Dale Spar, the 1936 Golden Gloves middleweight champion and all-navy title holder. Sailor Bailey hails from the Mississippi.

Other sailors signed for Thursday night's scrap include Wayne Powell, sensational middleweight champion of the cruiser division, who comes from the Minnesota; Jimmy Roberts, 147-pound welterweight from the Astoria; Kid Capelli, 140-pound brawler from Astoria; and Lynn Howard, hard-hitting colored light-heavyweight from the Utah.

Stewart was busy today arranging for opponents for the tough gobs who will invade the county Thursday night.

Ever since 1932, when California started the string of western victories, the boat from the Algonquin sea coast has unhesitatingly been named eastern favorite to upset the western dynasty and they've all failed.

After the Golden Bears inaugurated their winning streak by beating talented eights from Navy, Syracuse and Cornell, the regatta was discontinued in 1933. A year later the East bid with Navy and Cornell but the regatta was discontinued with Washington in place position. That was the last year an eastern crew won any race in the regatta, the Syracuse junior varsity salvaging the javayce event, the wreckage of eastern hopes.

But the Red oarsmen, on the strength of that showing and a fine early season record, came up to the race last year. The jinx held good and the Big Red finished a washed out pink in fifth place with the boat from Washington's great boat and California's second-place crew home.

The Tars are the eastern favorites today, as they drill on the Hudson.

Coach Buck Walsh views his boat's installation as favorite with a suspicious and jaundiced eye, he is sparing nothing in his efforts to bring the varsity up to race line, fit and full of rowing. He calls Wainwaring the boat to beat.

Second round matches in the annual President's cup tournament must be completed by Sunday night, Professional Roy Renwick announced today.

NEW YORK. — Navy is nominated for the death watch on the Hudson next week and if the Middies go the way of yesterday's eastern favorites in the varsity event of the intercollegiate regatta there's another sad day in store for the East but half a length behind the Bears.

Ever since 1932, when California started the string of western victories, one crew from the Atlantic sea coast has unhesitatingly been named eastern favorite to upset the western dynasty and they've all failed.

After the Golden Bears inaugurated the winning streak by beating talented eights from Navy, Syracuse and Cornell, the regatta was discontinued in 1933. A year later the East hit with Navy and Cornell, but California blew 'em down with Washington in place position. That was the last year an eastern crew won any race in the regatta, the Syracuse junior varsity salvaging the jayve event, from the wreckage of eastern hopes.

Pennsylvania went up to the starting line as the eastern palladin in 1935. But Joe Burke & Co. wilted under the four-mile ride and California took the race. Penn faded to sixth, while Cornell, drove down the last mile to finish less than half a length behind the Bears.

The Red oarsmen, on the strength of that showing and a fine early season record, came up to the race last year. The jinx held good and the Big Red finished a washed out pink. In fifth place, with Navy chasing Washington's great boat and California's second-place crew home.

The Tars are the eastern favorites today, as they drill on the Hudson.

While Coach Buck Walsh views his boat's installation as favorite with a suspicious and jaundiced eye, he is sparing nothing in his efforts to bring the varsity up to the standard of the jayve crew. He calls Washington the boat to beat.

PAYMENTS ON WAR DEBTS ARE DUE

Only Finland Expected to Pay Installment to U. S. Tuesday

WASHINGTON, (AP)—War debt installments totaling $1,500,000,000 fall due tomorrow from 13 European countries, but there is no sign that more than the merest fraction will be paid.

Only Finland, owing $163,143, paying promptly as usual. All the other countries have been in default since 1933.

Recent expression in France and Great Britain—the largest debtors, of hope that something might be done soon about a possible settlement of the war debt problem have not been followed as yet by any official action.

Willing to Dicker
The United States has voiced its willingness to consider any re-funding proposal.

Of tomorrow's total bill, $205,338,754 is the regular semi-annual installment.

The debt represents advances by this government for the purchase here of munitions, clothing and food by the various countries during and after the World war. It will amount to $22,000,000,000 with accumulated interest and principal at the end of the 62-year period of payments established in the original funding agreements.

Moratorium in 1935
Before the general default began, payments to this country on the total debt had amounted to $2,602,385,400.

Apprehension regarding the financial condition of Germany, or whose preparations payments most of the debtor nations counted to pay their obligations to the United States, prompted President Hoover to declare a moratorium in 1931.

This postponed payment during the fiscal year 1932 and apportioned the deferred payments over a 10 year period.

U. S. GRANTS SOVIET HOP PERMIT

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The state department announced it has granted a request of the Russian embassy for a Soviet aviator to fly over United States territory.

This indicated the Moscow government expected soon to try another flight from the Soviet capital to San Francisco via the North Pole—a venture which failed in 1935 because of mechanical difficulties encountered by Pilot Sigismund Levanevsky.

State department officials would give no further information, beyond asserting the formal permit did not specify the date, starting point or destination of the proposed flight.

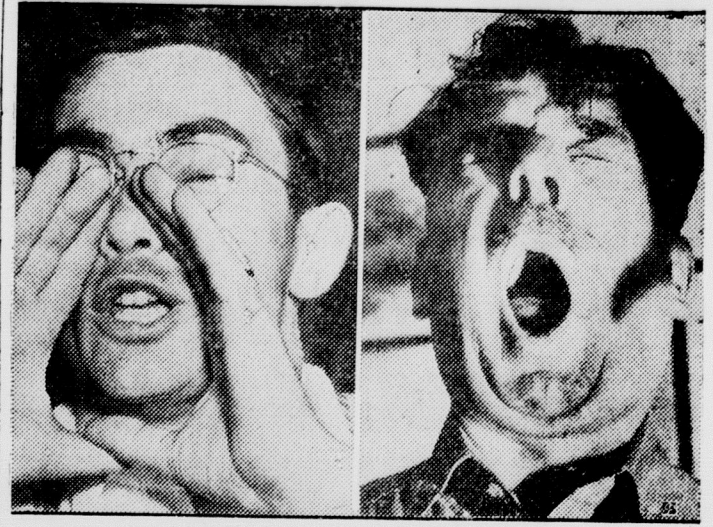

They said detailed information must come from Moscow.

The Soviet embassy here professed to have no information concerning the project.

JAPAN DENIES FISH BOATS' INVASION

TOKYO, (AP)—Japanese fisheries officials denied reports in the United States that more than 100 Japanese fishing vessels are now operating in Alaskan waters, and said that not a single salmon fishing boat was off the North American coast.

Two private fishing vessels, each with a small fleet of tenders, are operating outside Alaskan territorial waters, however, the fisheries department said. One of these is a 6000-ton crab catching ship and the other specializes in packing dry pulverized fishmeal.

Senator Homer T. Bone (D., Wash.) called the attention of the state department to a letter from the Association of Pacific Fishermen in Seattle protesting the presence of 100 Japanese fishing ships off the Alaskan coast.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Secretary Hull said the state department has been assured by the Japanese foreign office that no Japanese fishing boats have been granted licenses for salmon fishing in Alaskan waters.

DOCKWEILER'S WIFE DIES

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Solemn requiem mass for Mrs. Isadore Dockweiler, 68, wife of the veteran Democratic leader, will be said in St. Vincent's cathedral tomorrow.

Mrs. Dockweiler, in ill health three years, died Saturday night of a heart ailment. She was the mother of 13 children, 11 of whom survive her.

All except two sons, Lieut. Edward V. Dockweiler, U. S. navy, and Congressman John F. Dockweiler, reached here before her death.

She became the bride of Dockweiler in San Francisco 45 years ago.

SHAVE, HAIRCUT NAB BANDIT

SANTA CLARA, (AP)—A close shave and a haircut solved two robberies of the American Trust Company branch here.

A bearded, unkempt gunman entered the trust company branch Thursday and escaped with $567. A short time later Deputies Henry Vervais and Tom Silva stopped William Striker's car on the highway. Striker was clean shaven and neat—too much so for the suspicious natures of the peace officers.

Taken to the San Jose jail Striker confessed, Constable Larry Harris said, he held up the branch Thursday and on May 14 when $600 was reported taken.

DRAG WARSHIP OFF MUD FLAT

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP)—One of the America's first line battleships, the Tennessee, was anchored in Man o' War row on San Francisco bay today after being pulled from a harbor shoal.

Naval operations officers said the Tennessee, a 32,300-ton vessel carrying 70 officers and 1400 men, probably would get under way for San Pedro about the middle of the week. She was reloading fuel and ammunition that was taken off Saturday in order to free her from the mud flat.

The battleship's nose stuck on the bay bottom at 9 a. m. Friday. It was 31 hours later, during a flood tide, when she was refloated. Ship's officers said the damage, if any, was minor.

Bribery Prober Back in L. A.

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Otis D. Babcock, district attorney of Sacramento, was back here today to continue his investigation into charges of bribery in the last state legislative session.

Babcock said he would question several "important witnesses." He will again quiz Mrs. Albert Sherman, Hoyt, Pasadena society leader, whom he exonerated completely a week ago after a brief interrogation.

Babcock said he also wants to talk to Francis Vickers, political worker, and S. G. Marshall.

Dog Killed at Same Spot Where His Master Died

PERRY, N. Y. (AP)—Two weeks ago, an automobile killed 10-year-old William Davis as he started across a street here.

William's dog, Jack, close behind the boy, escaped injury. Since his master's death, neighbors said, it had been almost impossible to coax Jack away from the scene of the accident. The other day, Jack trotted listlessly out into the road. A car struck and killed him almost at the same spot where William died.

Apartment Fire Drives Out 20

SAN FRANCISCO, (AP)—Twenty persons, several of them babes in arms, were driven into the street early today when a fire, which firemen said may have been of incendiary origin, badly damaged an apartment house.

The fire started in the basement of the apartment, fire fighters said, and went up a light well, mushrooming on the upper floors. They said a woman, whose name was not learned, told them she saw a man throwing matches over a fence at the rear of the apartment, shortly before the alarm was turned in.

No one was injured. Damage was estimated by firemen at $10,000.

Youths Sailing To Pitcairn Isle

SAN PEDRO, (AP)—Pitcairn island, romantic South Sea refuge of the mutineers of H.M.S. Bounty, lay 4000 miles ahead on the course for four young mariners today.

In the 23-foot yawl Maui, Skipper Frank Anderson set sail yesterday with Robert Kellogg, Fred Duval and Robert Fogle.

Anderson is an experienced seaman, having cruised several times to Honolulu. After visiting Pitcairn island, he plans visits to Tahiti and the Marquesas, a chance back to the mainland for a Christmas arrival.

The youths will take motion pictures of interesting travel spots.

CLARENCE, N. Y. (AP)—A 34-year-old mother of eight children has been arrested on an abandonment charge in connection with the discovery of two 14-day-old girl babies under a bush here Thursday. She pleaded innocent.

The mother, Mrs. Mary Pföhl, of Akron, N. Y., told reporters she "didn't want to see the two babies want for anything so I left them where I thought they would be cared for."

Urgent Need for Flood Control Stressed in Report

DANGER FROM BIG DELUGE OUTLINED

Engineer's Report To Supervisors Shows Menace Here

BY KENNETH ADAMS

Orange county must have flood control works.

This well-known fact is emphasized in an official report submitted to the board of supervisors by Flood Control Engineer M. N. Thompson, preparatory to the $2,500,000 bond election to furnish Orange county's share of a government flood control program on which it will spend $12,748,000. The election will be July 27.

It is pointed out in the report that the quantity of flood and storm waters originating from the watersheds of Orange county streams varies with the seasonal rainfall. There is also a variation due to the duration of the storm, time of occurrence, time of concentration and other factors which affect the magnitude of flood waters.

Greatest Flood

The greatest flood flow that may occur from the eight streams in the county is estimated to total about 217,000 cubic feet per second. Streams tributary to the coastal basin will produce 75 per cent of the total estimated peak flows and those in the southern part of the county about 25 per cent.

Although the Santa Ana river is the largest single stream of the county, it is seen that the flood problem of the district covers more than this one stream and is county-wide in scope.

Since 1916, the report points out, the development of the district has proceeded at a rapid rate. The population has more than doubled and the assessed valuation has increased more than 300 per cent.

Expand Farm Area

More than half of the present inhabitants have no personal knowledge of the area that would be flooded or the resultant damage, it is said in the report. Intense cultivation, brought about by high returns from citrus fruits and other crops, has extended to land where flood waters once had the opportunity of spreading without causing much damage.

In the process of development, the channels of the Santa Ana river and other streams have been encroached upon. The present safe carrying capacity of the Santa Ana river channel, above Escondido creek, is approximately 6,000 second feet. When this capacity is compared to the flood flows that have occurred in the past, amounting to at least 45,000 second feet, it is evident that the existing danger from floods cannot be ignored, it was emphasized.

Population Centers

Other streams in the district are in a similar situation, being encroached upon and having a very limited carrying capacity, it is stated.

Centers of population are developing on areas of the greatest flood hazard. Anaheim, with its population of 12,000, lies near the old river channel and would not only suffer serious property damage, but many lives would be in danger from excessive flood flows, it was declared.

Fullerton and Buena Park are traversed by Brea creek, the channel of which is entirely too small to carry floods of the size that may be expected from that source. Santa Ana, in the vicinity of Santiago creek and adjoining the river, has suffered flood damage during high flows.

Yes Sir, It's Mutiny! They Whisper Betsy Ross Didn't Make Nation's First Flag

By ALEXANDER R. GEORGE
AP Feature Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—Historians and flag authorities will tell you (sotto voce) that Philadelphia's pretty Betsy Ross didn't make the first American flag.

But the romantic legend lives on 160 years after the stars and stripes became the official emblem.

Although the experts can cite lack of substantial evidence in support of the Ross saga, they are not shouting their doubts from the housetops. It might stir up a patriotic hornet's nest. Besides, they don't know for sure who should get the credit.

Betsy's Version

A common version of the Betsy Ross story, as she handed it down to her descendants, is that a committee of congress composed of George Washington, Robert Morris and Col. George Ross, uncle of Betsy's husband, called at her upholstery shop in Philadelphia and asked her to make the new flag.

Betsy's banner supposedly was presented to congress late in June, 1776, before the signing of the declaration of independence.

Records Silent

Historians challenge the Ross story primarily because the journals of congress and other records of the period contain no reference to it.

They doubt also whether congress would have ordered the flag before the colonies had severed their ties with England.

If Washington had had any connection with it, argues Col. James A. Moss, president-general of the United States Flag association, he surely would have mentioned it in his copious letters.

Philadelphia newspapers, Moss adds, which naturally would have been proud of Mrs. Ross, carry no account of the story.

Congressman Mentioned

One authority, the late Admiral George H. Greble, said that the flag designer probably never will be known.

Another authority, Capt. Byron McCandless, believes the most likely person is Francis Hopkinson, New Jersey delegate to congress who was a member of the committee which adopted the flag June 14, 1777.

The records show that in 1778 Hopkinson wrote the board of admiralty requesting "a quarter cask of the public wine" as compensation for his designs of a great seal of the United States, the flag of the United States and other devices for the continental government.

But whether the flag he mentioned was the original of Old Glory has never been established—and the Betsy Ross legend lives on as an average frequency of one in about five years. The flood of the greatest magnitude was that of the season 1861-62 with the several thousand acres of highly improved agricultural land, together with a well developed highway system, numerous highway and railroad bridges, totalling 110 in number and with an estimated present value of $1,878,598, and all types of public utility service, would be affected by excessive flood waters.

During the January, 1916 flood, four lives were lost and the estimated damage to agricultural land and other property of one in about five years. The flood of the greatest magnitude was that of the season 1861-62 with the

Story of The Flag

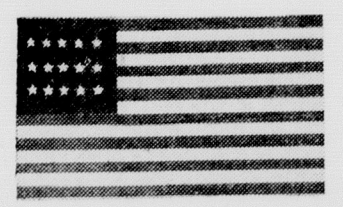

IN 1775 the new American flag first flew the Grand Union flag which had the British union jack in one corner.

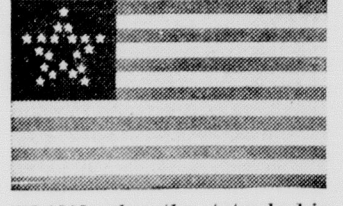

DURING THE REVOLUTION some contingents carried the rattlesnake flag as a "warning" to the British.

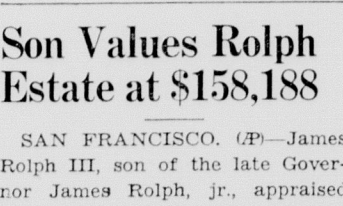

ON JUNE 14, 1777, the "Betsy Ross" flag was adopted as our official emblem.

IN 1794 congress decreed the flag should have 15 stripes and 15 stars.

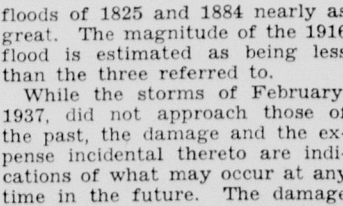

IN 1818, when the states had increased to 20, congress went back to 13 stripes but provided for the addition of a new star for each succeeding state.

IN 1892, when the states had increased to 48, congress went back to 13 stripes but provided for the addition of a new star for each succeeding state.

IN 1912, when the states had increased to 48, congress went back to 13 stripes but provided for the addition of a new star for each succeeding state.

SHOWS VALUE OF MUSICAL PROJECT

Federal Orchestra In 21 Concerts Before County Students

Scope of work done in the schools by the Federal Music project Symphony orchestra in two series of children's concerts just completed was disclosed today in reports from the office of Leon Eckles, supervisor.

Twenty-one concerts were given, which included the programs played in the schools of Orange, Anaheim, Huntington Beach, Brea and Laguna Beach as well as the city schools, and afforded instruction to 38,800 pupils.

Conducted along the lines of "music appreciation" classes, and designed for the purpose of providing instruction in instrumental grouping, the plan was put into execution with the indorsement of the principals of the Orange county schools, Eckles said.

Types of Music

With a view to keeping the music within the understanding of the pupils, two grades of concerts were given. The musical selections for the elementary grades were chosen chiefly for their simple structure and harmony; more involved were the programs played before the junior and senior high school bodies but the method employed in dealing with this phase of instruction was the same. Emphasis was given to the principal themes and the pupils were taught how to listen to their development.

Demonstrations were made of the various instruments, the musicians rising and playing the themes separately, bringing into play the orchestra's string and brass sections, the woodwinds and percussion instruments in turn. Study material, which included thematic and brief outlines of construction, was sent out in advance.

The teachers acted as commentators, giving brief biographical and analytical descriptions of the music. That these concerts held an important place in the school program was signified by the receptive attitude of the students, who exhibited a marked interest as each detail of orchestration was made clear.

Value Told

The series in the county schools was arranged through the cooperation of Mrs. Mabel Spizzy, Frank Henderson, superintendent. Santa Ana schools, supervised the city school series.

"Had this type of instruction been undertaken throughout the country 15 years ago, it is unlikely that we would have so lamentable a death discrimination on the part of concert audiences as is apparent today," Eckles said. "The trend of the majority of radio programs to cater to public taste rather than to educate it, does not tend to heighten the public's understanding of the world's great music."

Concentrating upon the essential purpose of cultivating the

SENIORS ARE HONORED AT ORANGE

Methodist Church Is Scene of Annual Baccalaureate

Before an auditorium filled with parents and friends of the graduates, and members of the senior class of the Orange Union High school, the Rev. Arthur T. Hobson, pastor of the Orange Methodist church, delivered the baccalaureate sermon Sunday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock.

Choosing for his topic, "Working the Controls," the speaker told his hearers that as hands of two persons on steering wheel are fatal to progress, so is the effect of two forces, good and evil, when each tries to rule the lives of boys and girls.

The organ processional was played by Percy Green, music teacher of the school; the invocation was given by the Rev. H. P. Sheerer, pastor of the Baptist church; scripture was read by the Rev. James B. Abbott, pastor of the Free Methodist church, and the benediction was given by the Rev. J. H. Hess, pastor of the Methodist church.

Miss Phyllis Kogler, a senior student, sang "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Harold Larson on the organ, and Bernard Cook on the violin. Combined girls' and boys' glee clubs sang "The Flower of Liberty."

LOCAL PASTORS RE-ELECTED

The Rev. W. C. Parham and the Rev. Alice Wilson Parham were re-elected as pastors of the Four Square Gospel church here last night for the year beginning July 1. They now have been here altogether for four years, including 18 months of the present pastorate and two and one-half years starting in 1929.

The Rev. Mr. Parham, chairman of the church council, last night appointed 35 church and Sunday school officers for the year. The council will meet tonight. Two members of the present council were reappointed. They are C. D. Lindsey and Emma Mohler. One new member was named, Mrs. R. R. Williams, who will represent women's interests.

Other members of the council are G. W. Stearns, Roy F. Dilkey and Daniel D. Buchheim.

The Rev. Mr. Parham will preach next Sunday morning on "What Would Happen If Jesus Came Back?" Sunday night his topic will be "What Happens Five Minutes After Death?"

children's taste in music, the series will be continued with the reopening of the schools in the fall, he said.

EARTHQUAKE'S PREDICTION UNSOLVED

Expert Says Location Of Stress Would Aid To Save Lives

ST. LOUIS. (AP)—The ways of earthquakes can be described, but an authority thinks the prediction of quakes is one major problem that seismology "has not yet solved."

"Every test has proved that prediction in time and space is now impossible," said Capt. N. H. Heck, chief of the division of seismology in the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey. "The place is fixed as that where unknown stress is growing that will eventually reach the breaking strength of the crust, and usually this is not at or near the surface, but five to 30 miles down—and in many cases much more."

Addressing a session of a Seismological Society of America meeting here, Capt. Heck declared "It is of utmost importance in the saving of lives and property that an attempt be made to determine the location of stresses that are seeking release through earthquakes."

The speaker warned against the "popular fallacy" that an earthquake, having relieved tremendous subterranean pressure, is a guarantee of a 50-year period of immunity for the stricken area. "Often a severe stress may continue to exist along a fault not far from one at which a similar strain was relieved," he said.

Frank Henderson Plans Train Trip To Convention

School Superintendent Frank Henderson of Santa Ana will be in charge of one of the largest Southern delegations in recent years to attend the National Education association convention, to be held at Detroit opening June 30.

Henderson has been in charge of arrangements for the convention trip aboard the California Teachers association special train, according to E. B. Sharpley, district passenger agent for the Southern Pacific here.

The train will depart from the Southern Pacific station at Los Angeles at 9 p. m., June 20. Delegates will have a chance on the trip to view the new San Francisco bay bridges, the 1939 San Francisco exposition site, the new Bonneville dam near Portland, Glacier National park and other points of interest.

Fifty-Fifty Club Colors Form Contrasting Motif for Dance at Town House

Gay Formals Worn By Ladies

Dinner Is Served at Black and Silver Tables

Black and silver ships sailed up and down the tables in the Town House, Los Angeles, Saturday night, when 25 couples of the Fifty-Fifty club gathered for a lovely summer formal dance.

The little ships were markers and nut cups at the places, each with the club crest on the prow. Soft-colored pansies banked with maiden hair fern made long mounds of color down the center of the tables, their line broken here and there by tall black tapers in silver holders.

Hosts at this June dance were Mr. and Mrs. Bus McCoy, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Beebe, and Mr. and Mrs. Riley Huber.

During the evening, the club took the opportunity to honor Miss Lee Fernandez and Ralph Culp, who are to be married next Sunday. Announcement was also made that two other members, Mr. and Mrs. Estee Brown, were the parents of a very new, eight and one-half pound baby boy.

A business meeting and stag for the men members was announced for the next Monday night at the Joe Winder home, with bridge for the ladies at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Stanley Norton.

Gay summer formals dotted the dance floor with bright colors. The three hostesses wore charming gowns in the summer mode. Mrs. McCoy a red dotted Swiss, Mrs. Beebe a red printed organdy, and Mrs. Huber a satin dress of a tea rose shade.

Mrs. Lawrence Mitchell was in blue crepe, Mrs. E. F. Bruning in yellow organdy with powder blue sash, and Miss Florence Diller also in yellow organdy.

Mrs. Leland Finley's lovely peach chiffon had a sash shading from pink to a deep rose. Mrs. Don Knapp wore baby blue satin with white polka dots. Mrs. H. B. Green was in pink chiffon, and Mrs. Wayne Harrison in green chiffon.

Mrs. Ray Hiniker wore pink organdy, Mrs. Stanley Norton white chiffon, Mrs. Bill Queale white dotted Swiss, Miss Fernandez ivory lace over satin.

The guest list for the dinner dance was as follows: Messrs. and Mesdames Verlin Anderson, Earl Beebe, LeRoy Burns, Leland Finley, Buddy Forster, Bill Gratton, H. B. Green, Wayne Harrison, Ray Hiniker, Riley Huber, Ingram, Don Knapp, Everett Lutz, Lawrence Mitchell, Bus McCoy, Bill Queale, James Tuma, Hume West, and Joe Winder; Dr. and Mrs. E. F. Bruning; Dr. and Mrs. Stanley Norton, Misses Florence Diller, Lee Finley, Phyllis Sanderson, and Lucille Davidson, and Messrs. Earl Crockett, Ralph Culp, Al Fernandez, and John Fleming.

Learning Not Just For Youth

BY DR. MARY E. WRIGHT

It is a far cry from schools for tiny tots to schools for adults, some even as old as 80 years, yet these two extremes represent two of the latest and most important branches of educational progress. Mrs. Golden Weston was made director of adult education here ten years ago, and began her work with Mexicans and citizenship classes for foreigners. Many of these students could speak scarcely a word of English, but because of the need for citizenship they were given in these classes an opportunity to concentrate on study of the constitution and laws which enabled them to pass the necessary examinations.

Later, the program widened to include much needed physical education for prisoners. A teacher was provided to give weekly training in an open air patio to those who were confined in jail.

Since then the program of adult training, which is met entirely by state funds, has broadened to take in academic subjects—history, mathematics, vocational and avocational subjects such as shop work, writing, crafts, drama, public speaking, Spanish, flower arrangement, interior decorating, music (both choral and orchestral), sewing, first aid, home hygiene, Red Cross nursing.

Program Approved
The program, as developed by Mrs. Weston, has the approval of Superintendent Frank Henderson and the board of education.

Graduation requirements from an evening high school are given when desired, and have been given for five years, turning out a number of graduates.

During the years of depression, it has been a means of occupying troubled minds, filling their lives with new interests and building up the morale of the community.

Men and women who work all day gather happily in the evening classes to learn something which may advance them in business. Typing has aided many a young person in office work; social civics, shop work, electric welding and the like appeal primarily to men, but often both husband and wife go to classes or lectures together. Chosen speakers bring the finest of material from many fields.

For five years, travel talks have delighted those who attend, the speakers furnished by a travel bureau.

The adult education programs are possible in any high school

FOR FORTY-ISH FIGURES

A shawl, instead of a jacket, adds glamour to the dramatized grass green evening gown of small flowered print chiffon which is very striking on the more mature figure. The shawl, neckline, and hemline all have saw-tooth edging. Several royal purple curled ostrich tips are worn just over the left ear.

Book Review of the Week

Editor's Note: This is one of a series of weekly book reviews of current publications which will appear on Monday in The Journal. (Courtesy Lockwood's Lending Library)

"The Outward Room" is an unforgettable story of the redemption of a human mind. It is also one of the most beautiful love stories to read in a long, long time. While the author delves deep into the science of psychiatry, he uses generally known terms and simple enough illustrations so that the average reader can easily follow, even anticipate the gradual return to normalcy of Harriet Demuth. Harriet's mind broke when she witnessed the violent, accidental death of her adored brother. She was placed in a hospital for the insane, where she alternated between acute attacks of her disorder, and long periods of sanity when she was pitifully aware of her condition. One night she escaped from the hospital, clung to the platform of a train and made her way to New York City. Friendless, jobless, broke, she joined the thousands of girls, who, for a nickel, spend their nights on the subway. On the verge of utter desperation she was befriended by a young mechanic, who bought her a cup of coffee, took her home.

John's casual acceptance of her past, his quiet devotion, and the responsibility of daily household tasks gradually restored Harriet's mental balance, gave her a clearer understanding of herself. Still there were moments when she felt the blackness of despair creeping upon her, feared the return of a violent attack of her disease. She refused to marry John until she was sure she had been entirely cured. Happily this time was not long in coming, and out of her new strength she was able to give him comfort when he needed it most.

I cannot recommend "The Outward Room" too highly. It is a gripping, unusual story that will stay with you long after the froth of mist contemporary novels has left.

Mary Stoddard June Brides Covet Their Own Homes Despite So-Called "Modernity"

June, that magic month of romance, has descended upon us in all the glory of bridal roses and gold wedding rings! An all-time record is being broken in Cupid's headquarters down at the marriage license bureau. "Marriage out of date?" "Matrimony a hazard today?" Let the critics who chant figure this out. Whither will the gay procession stop? Will June brides and grooms stop? Will they make their homes in apartments or hotels?

Not the majority of them. Just glance at an article in the current Good Housekeeping by Greta Palmer.

Her symposium reveals that very few girls who are marrying today want apartments. They want houses—houses with wide chimneys, hot water pipes that freeze in the winter, a furnace that needs to be refueled at a lawn and a roof to shingle. Yes, these girls, in spite of their lip-stick reputations want their own homes. They want these homes to be houses with gardens and four walls, a hearth and a simmering kettle.

These facts are as bright and shining as the June sun over our heads. Figures do not lie. There wasn't a girl or woman in the group of several hundred prospective brides to whom questionnaires were sent who wanted to live in a hotel.

Old Values
The compilation of this material reveals that American home life isn't in much danger of being swept away by the economic vicissitudes that have made the Star Spangled Banner tremble a little of late years. As long as women want homes, the desire for security is deeply planted in their lives.

Divorce, at the moment, may be a disturbing factor in the pattern, but it certainly is not a caper that women want to cut out of the amusement of life. Other wise, they would not want their husbands to invest in brick and concrete and mortar and so many feet of good earth.

It may be that the tribulations that came to us with economic insecurity overthrew the faith in the clean and shining sense of values which the Puritans brought across a stormy ocean—values that trekked westward when the wagons started to a land of large winds and singing trees.

The desire for a home—a house, to be strictly literal—is so deeply implanted in women that the designers of communal places of living will have to realize that the family is still an independent unit.

Comfort vs. Caviar
Brides today want children. Mrs. Palmer discovered from her questionnaires. The number varies from two or four. Girls are the choice for the first-born, a fact that augurs well for the reception women are receiving in the world.

Even when it comes to cooking, the frying pan and measuring spoons are getting acquainted with actual service. Brides who do not cook always replied to their inquirer that they intended to learn.

Surely the 1937 bride, combining the contemporary ability to play, laugh and take care of herself with the home-making attributes of the grandmothers from whom she came is a composite of all things finest in the American democracy. Critics prate needlessly about the trend of the age. Human nature does not alter. It adapts itself to changing conditions, reshapes its personal pattern to conform to reality.

More than ever, today, young people are concerned with a time map. They are projecting their minds forward to that tomorrow when they will be a little older, a little more in need of an abiding place in the storm. Therefore, caviar has no place on their menu. They pay for their capers as they go and they have stopped buying life on the installment plan.

COMUS DANCE
Comus club will have an informal dance Thursday night at the Orange American Legion hall, with Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ewert, Mr. and Mrs. Hume West, and Mr. and Mrs. Leland Finley as hosts.

Don't Be A Bore! Use Vivid Synonyms

Do you yawn when you're cornered by a "he-said-I-said" talker—then wonder if you bore the same way yourself?

Let pleasing synonyms rescue you from "he-said" trouble. You can keep your talk lively easy to listen to if you substitute for "said"—"declared," "replied," "answered," "remarked."

To overwork words of any kind, even dressy, many-syllable words, betrays a lack of culture, a poorly stocked mind.

Do you call everything you like "marvelous"? Change to "remarkable," "delightful," "exceptional." Or do you sum up all your dislikes with "dreadful"? Try "offensive," "unpleasant," "appalling."

So easy to talk with charm—to avoid awkward silences—when you have vivid words at your command.

Our 32-page booklet gives you 4725 synonyms for words you use every day—puts the right word on the tip of your tongue.

Send 10c for your copy of "Synonyms for Every-day Words" to The Santa Ana Journal, Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

FILMSTRIKERS BACK ON JOB

HOLLYWOOD. (AP)—The seven-week-old film strike passed into history today as the last of 1000 painters, scenic artists, hairdressers and makeup artists who were still out when a settlement was reached last week, returned to work.

The Federation of Motion Picture Crafts, which was organized as the strike began, has disbanded. Several of the striking crafts have affiliated with the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees and it is yet to be determined whether others will.

Conferences already have begun on the strikers' demands as to hours, wages and working conditions, left to negotiation by the strike settlement terms.

SIGHTS and SOUNDS

By ROBBIN COONS

THE FIFTH MRS. BOYD—Here we are, folks, right at the end of the bridal path over which Bill Boyd led Grace Bradley to matrimony.

The screen players were married at the home of the bride's mother in Hollywood. Grace is 23. It was the fifth marriage for Boyd, who is 39, and whose latest "ex" was Dorothy Sebastian.

HOLLYWOOD. (AP)—The cheapest commodity in Hollywood to produce—and the hardest—is a star.

By the same token the most expensive commodity to produce is a star who turns out to be just another player.

The production of a real star is cheap, because the studio has to spend nothing on promoting him. It lets the public "discover" this rare article and pay for the thrill if any.

But this happens so rarely that you can't blame the producers for trying, consistently, to "develop" people into stars. That is where the cost can run into money. Exploitation costs money.

Build-up Flops

To try to make Anna Sten a star in her first film set Sam Goldwyn back more than $100,000, not counting the cost of the picture "Nana."

She lavished special tests upon her, splurged on advertising space, and still the fans didn't become Sten—conscious. (Anna's making a come-back, and I hope she fools everybody by catching on.)

But M-G-M spent nary a farthing on Robert Taylor. He was working for chickenfeed when he made "Society Doctor" and the public did the rest. They've advised him plenty since, but they know they're going to get it back.

The fans developed Clark Gable in the same way. They spotted him in a bit in a Constance Bennett picture, and from then on the studio knew it had something. Universal spent some on Deanna Durbin, but not until "Three Smart Girls" had taken preview raves.

Warners spent on Lil Dagover, and Fox on Lillian Harvey and Ketti Gallian. But all Warners did for Errol Flynn was take a chance on him in a big picture, and the public did the rest.

Shirley A 'Natural'

Shirley Temple never cost Fox a cent. She was making $75 a week for some time after she became a gold mine. But Simone Simon, with a build-up like Sten's, is still in the uncertain class.

Marlene Dietrich came to Hollywood with the flags flying and the trumpets of exploitation blasting. She has stayed, but her box-office rating in America is no higher than it would have been without the ballyhoo.

Yet the producers will keep trying, whenever they think they have a good bet. They can't just wait for the "cheap" ones—the real stars—to happen along.

TO MEET WEDNESDAY

Sewing club of the Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary will have an all-day meeting Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Esther Smith, 1922 South Sycamore street, with a covered dish luncheon at noon.

SIXTH HOUSEHOLD

Sixth household economics section of Ebel will hold its final meeting of the year next Friday when it meets for a picnic luncheon at 12:30 o'clock in Anaheim park.

Those desiring transportation are asked to call Mrs. A. M. Gardner, 1038-J, and all are reminded to take their own table service and a covered dish as decided at the May meeting.

Woods Full of Film Talent; Director to Seek it Out

By HOMER MCCOY

HOLLYWOOD. (AP)—The woods are full of film talent, in the opinion of Sam Wood, veteran director, and he is determined to embark on a unique plan for seeing the trees despite the forest.

"The woods are full of it," Wood declared today. "The gamble is small. The need tremendous. And every Cinderella's foot will fit the glass slipper of stardom—if we can find the Cinderella."

"One thing about Hollywood—it has the biggest stock of glass slippers in the whole world."

Wood cautioned against an invasion of would-be actors and actresses. They do not have to come to him; he will seek them out. Wood's complaint, that the movies need fresh faces and personalities, is a familiar theme which comes up with regularity. "We need youth," he put it. "We need fresh faces and fresh talents. The very life of the studios depends upon these things."

The director's formula for finding and developing a star is different.

First, until he can get time off to go shopping about the dark corners of the nation, he will select a dozen or more likely-looking extras or non-professionals. Then he will put these persons in the midst of crowds.

"That will be the first and acid test," he explained. "If their faces stand out in a crowd, if their personalities stand out, half the battle is won. That's the best way to discover them—in crowds."

Next, Wood will have a story written for those selected—a story for each designed to emphasize the characteristics which prompted him to choose the subject in the first place.

Then will come the tutelage of giving them confidence and poise, during a six-months' training period when the subjects will be required to learn the script written for him or her.

"And then we will put him before the camera," said Wood. "We will star him opposite some established woman star. We will give them each a 50-50 break. So we will have a new star."

Simple, like that.

MARY ASTOR'S HOME FOR SALE

HOLLYWOOD. (AP)—The spacious Toluca Lake home where Mary Astor and Dr. Franklyn Thorpe lived when they were man and wife, was put up for sale today.

"There's no particular important reason for it," the red-haired actress laughed. She is now married to Manuel Martinez del Campo, young Mexican sportsman.

The Toluca Lake home played a prominent part in Miss Astor's custody action against Dr. Thorpe a year ago. Following their divorce in 1935, the physician occupied it for a time, with their daughter Marylyn, now five years old.

Theater Project Rolls to Be Cut

LOS ANGELES. (AP)—George Gerwing, state director of the federal theater project, said orders have been received to dismiss 384 persons from the project in California by July 15. Two hundred will be left out in Los Angeles county, and the San Bernardino project, employing 45, will be closed, Gerwing said.

Reduction of the number on the theater projects was simultaneous with orders to cut in the federal music project and federal Works Progress administration personnel.

GAINES

There's been an important birthday in Laguna.

The boisterous baby of the Art Colony journalistic ranks has passed its first birthday and now is booming toward its second. In other words, the Laguna Herald is a year old.

Which probably makes the majority of the population very happy. They've been getting a very interesting sheet every week, kicking pants when it was necessary and generally delving into spots where newspapers are supposed to lift their noses and notice nothing.

And they've been going to town! As an illustration of the manner in which the Herald-ers handle things, take a couple of paragraphs from Edwin Wilson's column, "Between Rounds." He brings up the subject of parking meters and high rents without fear or favor, and I think you'll agree with him:

It is the opinion (person understood) of this column that the parking meter idea for Laguna Beach ranks, for utility, with the lately buried bathing suit law. And the objection is not just because somebody is trying to sell the city a string of slot machines—which the motorists will pay for. Our objection is this: if the police department can't enforce the one-hour parking law now on the books how the heck can it enforce payment of nickels into the slot machines? We hope the city council gives the latest futility the consideration it so richly deserves.

To those folks who have houses for rent. We don't believe anybody is deliberately trying to kill the goose that lays the golden egg—but some of you are doing a pretty fair job of annoying the goose to the point of making it squawk. Remember there are a bunch of folks who live here all the year and must pay rent. With the flock of apartment houses now being completed, some of those ancient houses now wearing the high rent hat, may find themselves before the winter is over, welcoming some good old $25 a month renters. Laguna has not yet reached the point in which it can expect rent opulence as a steady diet. Too much cream is not good for a digestion accustomed to part time at least—to skimmed milk.

And then Art McBride, La Habra's publisher, pops up with a beef on the meter situation, thusly:

Parking meters in various cities seem to cause more or less uproar. At the moment our own Santa Ana is in the throes of trying to decide about them. Seems to me for a small city trying to attract visitors to its business houses, parking meters are a good deal like the restaurants which compel their waitresses to get their wages out of the customers in the form of tips. Sort of paying for the privilege of spending your money there.

Has anyone noticed lately the number of cats riding in automobiles? Nearly as many as dogs. In Newport yesterday I saw two. Three or four in Santa Ana during the past few days. It'll soon be the style to take Thomas riding instead of the family hound. I'm afraid!

The critters seem to like it, too. Even Walter, our family mouse-catcher, goes for touring in a big way, except he acts as if he'd like to take a flying leap through a window every time he sees a bird!

While talking of animals, we might as well reprint the dog poem from the Fullerton News-Tribune. It's to a dog named Nig, and I'll bet I know who owned him! Here's the tribute to a little black dog:

If there isn't a place for a pal like you
Beyond the Great Divide;
If there isn't space for a heart so true
With love so deep and wide—

If the angels haven't a greeting smile
For a friend who gave his best;
For a soul as white and as free
As over a saint possessed—

If there isn't praise in the Promised Land
For courage that never quailed;
If the High Ones there cannot understand
Forgiveness that never failed—

Then I do not care for a place
Up There,
With a Landlord cold and proud,
Where they've hung a sign with this haughty line:
"Notice: No Dogs Allowed."

EARLY CLEANUP OF COUNTY'S CITRUS PRODUCTION SEEN

ORANGE CROP IS SHIPPED RAPIDLY

Only 17,181 Carloads of Valencias Still to Be Marketed

Rapidity with which the Valencia orange crop is being shipped was seen in figures released today by the Orange County Fruit exchange at Orange. To June 1, association affiliated with the exchange shipped 859 carloads of fruit, while the June 1 figure of last year was 588 carloads.

Of the total Valencia crop there are 17,181 carloads left to go, while last year after June 6, shipments amounted to 28,687 carloads. There is less fruit left to go, and so far it has been moving faster than last year. The above estimates of the total crop left to be shipped and the comparable amount last year were made by the California-Arizona Orange and Grapefruit agency.

Lemon Situation

May shipments through the Orange County Fruit exchange were 770 carloads, making a total of 859 for the season to June 1. Fifty-four carloads of lemons were shipped by the same organizations in May, bringing the total to 189 carloads for this exchange.

Total California Fruit Growers exchange storage as of June 1 showed a decrease of 13 per cent as compared with storage on May 15. Supplies in storage are about eight per cent less than the average on June 1 for the past five years. June picks are expected to be one-third less than in May.

"Market conditions on California lemons continued on a very satisfactory level throughout the month, with volume of sales considerably above the average," the exchange at Orange reported.

"With most favorable weather last week, the markets made a fairly sharp advance in prices even in spite of a much heavier sales volume."

The report said all houses are handling the crop with a minimum of good fruit.

Action of the industry in voluntarily continuing regulation of orange shipments on a voluntary basis after legal proration was suspended, was praised in the exchange report.

Gardner at Orange Invents New Type Water Nozzle

ORANGE.—It is now possible to irrigate flowers without washing away the earth from the plants, yet obtain a full flow of water, since Michael Estock, 437 South Glassell street has his newly invented hose nozzle on the market.

In 1921 Estock came to California, and was employed by a nurseryman. He immediately saw the need of some device which would permit a full flow of water to plants without washing away the ground. He began to think about the problem, and then to experiment, until after many years' work he perfected his nozzle. He obtained a patent several years ago, but until the present has not

CHAPTER XXXVI

THE judge turned to Rodney, who, with Maureen, was staring at him in astonishment.

"At 8:23," he said, "you will legally reach the age of twenty-five."

Rodney gulped. "What has that to do with a million dollars?"

Deliberately, and in measured tones, Judge Justus told the entire story of the will which left Rodney a million dollars if he was still a bachelor when he reached the age of twenty-five. He told of sending Judy to Gunnison to thwart Pettigrew's scheme to get his hands on the money.

"That," the judge ended, "is the entire story. I flew here to congratulate you on inheriting a million dollars. Instead, I find that, after Judy has gone to the extreme of kidnapping one girl to prevent you from marrying her, you have turned around and married another girl! Words fail me!"

The old judge took out a cigar, lit it, and puffed furiously. Then, suddenly realizing where he was, he put it down and turned the minister's horrified face, he turned and stalked out of the church.

"That's the way it is," Judge said, with a strained smile. "A sort of 'now it can be told' male. And just to think that, all the time I was guarding Sari with a pistol, you two were planning this behind my back." She gazed at Maureen and Rodney reproachfully.

"With a pistol?" Rodney asked interestedly.

"Yes. And then, the tunnel caved in on her and—"

Maureen stared at her. "It's perfectly all right," Judge assured them. "Jim came to her rescue. Oh, yes, I almost forgot. They were raising the dirt off each other's faces when I got disgusted and came away. And Jim threw a rock at me that he said was rotten with gold. So now, they're worth a million, while you two will just have to live on love."

"We don't care, do we?" Maureen said to Rodney.

He kissed her and said, "Of course not."

"I care!" Judy cried rebelliously. "Judge Justus promised to make you pay me ten thousand dollars out of the estate if I kept you from getting married, and—and I've tried so hard—and—and Peter and I needed it so we could get married—and now you've gone and ruined everything. . . ."

She burst into tears again, and Peter took her in his arms and soothed her.

After the storm was over, and Judy had wiped her eyes and admitted that nothing really mattered so long as she had Peter, the judge's mind was mostly occupied with plans for dodging J. Montrose Pettigrew after he returned to Miami. With a million dollars, Pettigrew would be a million times as obnoxious as at present.

THE END.

ROCKING BRINGS DUNKING

Three Men End Trip in Water

NEWPORT-BALBOA. — The story about the man who rocked the boat is becoming almost as time-worn as the one about the man biting a dog, but here it is again!

Only this time the rocking process almost ended disastrously for three men on Newport Bay yesterday afternoon.

A small cabin cruiser operated by Grant Shreve of Los Angeles overturned in the bay and sank after one of its occupants was reported to have become a bit too enthusiastic in his rocking. Quick work by a passing fishing boat and Harbor master Tommy Bouchey saved the occupants from more than a wetting.

Accompanying Shreve in the boat were George Melrum, 3440 East Fifth, Los Angeles, and Lloyd Adams, 518 South Jolson, Del Monte. Bouchey, who was watching the craft from his office at the time, said it suddenly turned over and sank almost immediately. The sunken cruiser was towed to Newport.

Bouchey said that yesterday was one of the busiest for several years on the bay, with nearly all of the 1600 registered craft either heading for the fishing grounds or touring the harbor. The harbor department's speedboat was busy from morning until night keeping order and enforcing harbor laws.

Heading the list of visiting yachts yesterday was "Comrade," a cruiser owned by Douglas McLean, and "Dorsal," another cruiser, owned by George Converse, husband of Anita Stewart.

HEY, GUYS, SCHOOL'S OUT! Laguna Kids Forget Troubles

LAGUNA BEACH. — School let out for the summer with plenty of whoops and hollers Thursday noon, and down-town crowds were considerably startled by the noises of childhood on the loose which broke out near the school building up Park avenue an increased greatly in shrill volume as the kids ran down the street toward the beach.

All along the northern business section of Coast boulevard, barefoot youngsters were seen sitting in almost interminable lines on the curb. They were waiting, they all into the free zone, for a two-hour lull in the noises of childhood was broken when girls and boys came streaming out of the movie.

FIRE WAR IN COAST GROUP TO MEET AT CLEMENTE

LAGUNA BEACH. — Drastic steps will now be taken to curb the city's grass-fire wave, Fire Chief R. D. Woodward warned today, stating that of the series of two-day fires last week, more than five were directly traceable to negligence in the use of incinerators.

A fine of $10 will be assessed anyone using incinerators improperly so that general grass fire should start, the chief said. Conditions brought on by the heavy rains early in the season are such that every vacant lot is a potential hazard for the endangering of life and property, the chief added.

Possibilities that some arsonist will have to pay for deliberate fire-setting was seen recently when a large grass fire was started in the Temple Hills district. Both city and county fire departments were called out to stop the blaze.

Heading the list of residents of the neighborhood saw a strange car drive into the district immediately before the blaze.

"If we catch the offenders, they are liable under the full extent of the law," the chief said. "We have all the reasons in the world to believe that the fire was set by human hand," he added.

Citizens wishing to burn rubbish or grass in the open must work within a cleared space of not less than a 10-foot radius, and incinerators must be enclosed to prevent the rapid or broad-spread flying of sparks to other inflammable areas, it is ruled.

ADDITION TO CHURCH IS PLANNED

LAGUNA BEACH. — R. F. Inwood, architectural specialist in ecclesiastical and church edifices, is drawing plans for a new section of the Community Presbyterian church at Forest avenue and Second street, to be called the "Christian Education Unit."

A meeting will be held Wednesday evening in the assembly room of the church, and a committee will be chosen to work with Inwood, the Rev. Raymond I. Brahm, pastor, announced. The church committee of finances chose Inwood for the task in view of his long experience and skill as an architect of religious buildings.

Although no plans have as yet been definitely drawn, it is expected that the new unit will follow the general Spanish architecture of the rest of the church.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK. (AP)—Oppressed principally by widening labor rifts, the stock market today suffered its sharpest break in several weeks.

With offerings expanding substantially, losses of 1 to more than 7 points hit all departments in the morning tumble. Numerous new lows for the year or longer were distributed throughout the list.

Prominent on the extension of the decline were steel and motors. Not far behind, however, were rails, coppers, rubbers, oils, mail orders and farm implements.

Some support appeared near the final hour, and extreme setbacks were pared or reduced. At the same time weakness was in evidence at the close. Prices follow:

BETRAYED BY HIS PARROT

Head of a notorious gang of French criminals, M. Chambon, who went under the name of Victor Chevalier, successfully eluded capture by the Paris police again and again. About 1888, however, the gendarmes were hot on his trail. The livery stable which he kept as a front for his real activities was located and the police raided it. Chevalier had flown the coop with his pet parrot. Only his wife, Marie, remained. The authorities could get no information from her.

Time passed, Chevalier became more and more a thorn in the side of the police force. They followed up lead after lead, but their quarry was always one jump in front of them. Finally the chase led to the Montmartre district where several houses were raided. As the police broke in the door they heard a shrill cry: "Totot! Totot! Totot! Totot!"

Guns leveled, the investigators rushed into the room from whence the cry. There they found a caged parrot. The head of the raiding party recognized the parrot's utterances as the nicknames of Victor and Marie. This bird, then, might be that of Victor and his wife Marie. Here was a clue worth following up.

Judge Stump

Dear Judge: Did you ever eat food advertised by the restaurant as "home cooking" that really tasted like it? A. B. D. I've eaten restaurant pancakes which reminded me of the famous ones turned out by my late uncle, Sapolio Stump, the steer-stealing terror of the Western plains. He was known as "Leather-Batter" Stump. When he made pancakes, the cowpunchers came from miles around to patch their saddles. STUMP.

Flower Stitchery is New! Colorful!

PATTERN 5878

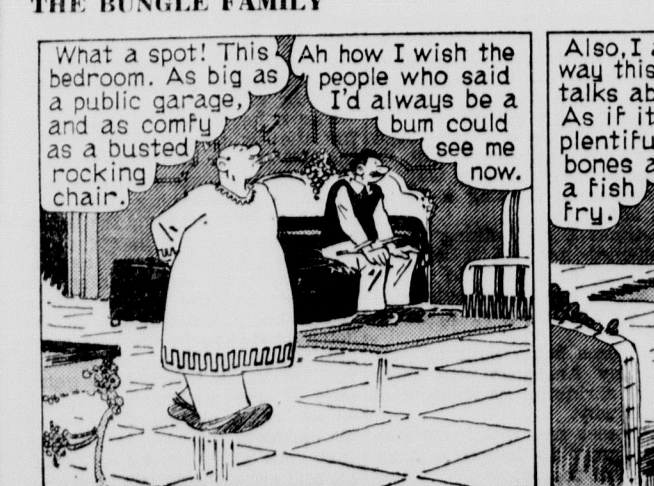

New! Colorful! This gay flower and butterfly design that will "do wonders" for a new or not-so-new frock. Place these jolly motifs anywhere—on sleeves, skirt or bodice, or as a "corsage" at your waistline. Then embroider them with silk floss or brilliant scraps of wool. It's grand fun to splash color here and there with your needle, and an old frock, treated this way, looks "brand new." In pattern 5878 you will find a transfer pattern of one and one reverse motif 6 1/2 x 8 inches; two and two reverse motifs 4 x 5 1/4 inches and four and four reverse motifs 3 1/2 x 4 1/4 inches; color suggestions; illustrations of all stitches used.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Journal, Household Arts Dept., 117 East Fifth St., Santa Ana, Calif. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and pattern number.

Apparel Must Be Well Chosen

Try to compromise between smartness and beauty. A well-known hair stylist told me a few days ago:

"The wise woman chooses hats and clothes that are most becoming to her type, guided by suggestions from her modiste and milliner. She should enter a beauty shop with the same open mind. When the stylist has made a careful study of her features and characteristics, he is able to incorporate the leading style trends into an individualized coiffure which will be most complementary."

So, listen to the suggestions of your hairdresser before you insist on having a hair-cut like the girl on the latest magazine cover. Have him part your hair in different ways and sweep the ends around in different arrangements so you can see the lines you like best.

If you have youth, lovely features or a cute profile try the swept-up rolls and swirls that are still as popular as when they were introduced last fall. But if you are a little older or have irregular features to contend with try the softer arrangements that Hollywood sponsors or a compromise between the two.

If your forehead is quite high and you are afraid of looking too intellectual, you can pull the waves or rolls slightly forward onto the forehead itself, you can have bangs, although one rarely sees them this spring, or you can have several little half-curls to break the lines.

If high cheek bones or excessive

What a spot! This bedroom. As big as a public garage, and as comfy as a bed. I'd always be a bum could see me rocking chair.

Ah how I wish the people who said I'd always be a bum could see me now.

Also, I admire the way this guy Midas talks about money. As if it was as plentiful as bones at a fish fry.

Mark my word, this money stuff will put somebody on ice.

Russia Still a Land of Blood

THE rest of the world, which hopefully expected tyranny to diminish in Soviet Russia following the adoption of a constitution, has been horribly disillusioned, no doubt, by the recent blood purges of high officials in the Red regime.

Eight generals were executed Saturday on conviction of treason and the sentence was carried out with the curse of "die like dogs."

These men were accused of being spies in foreign service. Perhaps they were. But there is plenty of reason to doubt the justice of Soviet military courts.

Even criticism is considered treason in Red Russia. Don't take our word for it. Read what was written by Andre Gide, one of the best known Communists of France. In his book, "Return From U. S. S. R.," Gide says:

What is desired and what is demanded (of the Russian people) is approval of all that is done by the Soviet authorities. The smallest protest, the least criticism, is liable to the severest penalties; and in fact is immediately stifled.

And I doubt whether in any country in the world, even Hitler's Germany, is thought less free, more bowed down, more terrorized, more vassalized.

The Soviet citizen is kept in an extraordinary state of ignorance concerning foreign countries. Every morning Pravda (the official newspaper in Moscow) teaches the people what they should know and think and believe. And he who strays from the path had better look out. On every subject there can be only one opinion; and that is the opinion of Stalin and the official bureaucracy.

Here in free America, we can sympathize with the oppressed masses of Russia. They are being crushed by a heartless dictatorship that differs only in name and methods from those of Italy and Germany.

One of these days, let us hope, the new constitution will become more than just a scrap of paper and the poor people of Russia will win the liberties they have never known either under czar or commissar.

Morgan slid through the loopholes in the tax laws. Al Capone enlarged the holes. Considerable difference in the modus operandi.

One Way to Make Mailing Easier

HERE'S a good idea which a reader sends in for us to relay to Postmaster Frank Harwood:

How about a mail box at the postoffice that can be reached from the driver's seat of a car for use of persons without a boarding house reach?

The present box in front of the postoffice is usually hidden by parked cars—or cars are parked so close one cannot drive up to it. One must park, get out of his car, pick up and dust off his keys, knock off in the act, walk to the box and back to the car, then wait for a chance to back out into the stream of traffic.

Why not have a box so located, perhaps on a one-way lane in the rear of the building, that one might drive to it, pause a moment, post the mail easily from the driver's seat (without getting out of the car and losing hat) and leave in a happy frame of mind?

Some of us lazy folks, and others with rheumatism would get more good out of a few dollars spent this way than by spending it teaching the hillbillies of Tennessee to play mountain music on a mouth organ with Jew's harp accompaniment.

The letter containing the suggestion is signed by Hezekiah Hayloft.

Hezekiah's name may be phoney—but his idea is all right.

No doubt a handy curbstone mailbox, arranged so that letters could be posted from the seat of a car, would be a convenience to many of Uncle Sam's customers. We hope Postmaster Harwood likes the idea and can arrange it.

FDR isn't so bad at finding loopholes either. He found a dandy in the constitution for his court packing plan.

Should Ambulances Always Speed?

TRAGIC death of two promising young hospital orderlies last week brings up that old question—"Is it necessary for ambulances to travel so fast?"

Everytime an ambulance roars by with its siren blowing and tires screaming, the question pops into the minds of frightened motorists and scampering pedestrians.

There are emergencies, no doubt, when an ambulance must break the speed laws in order to get first aid to some unfortunate man or woman whose life is fast ebbing away.

But on many cases—such as scarlet fever, maternity or surgical—there is often no reason for extreme haste. A few minutes more or less mean nothing.

A speeding ambulance is as dangerous to life and property as any other kind of speeding automobile.

Better a country with stuffed shirts than with brown ones.

Tourists Are On the March

VACATION fever has set in unusually strong this summer, judging from tourist trade journals and business magazines, which unanimously agree that people are going further, staying longer and spending more on their trips than in many years past.

Good news for California, because vacation tourists are not running the risk of a jaunt to war-torn Europe but are taking their recreation mostly in the good old U. S. A.

California is getting and will continue to get its full share of this business.

There'll Be No Kick From Tustin

SANTA ANA can put in parking meters without opposition from Tustin, declares The Tustin News, which explains—

"Over here in Tustin we would have no objection whatever to parking meters on the streets of the neighbor city. What is one man's loss is another's gain."

Diary: Betimes to the docks to breakfast aboardship with Purser Villier of the Normandie. And then poking about the water front and through the tumbling tenements of West 47th street. So home and found a sickening letter from an anonymous writer in Seymour, Ind., trying to justify his poisoning of dogs.

Hamish McLaurin, here on a flying trip from California, swooped, he having decided to shutter their Nyack home and reside permanently on the coast, as have so many lately. Then out and by the Ambassador to see Emily Ringling a moment and sat awhile with Dean Cornwell.

Tonight we had our first dinner served by the bonnie new Scottish maid, with a Will Fye accent. And so in the car, picking up the Henry Sells, and driving across Long Island and toward the sea. Afterward home and reading an autographed volume E. Phillips Oppenheim sent from the Island of Gurnsey.

Now and then I get the reactions of modern youth to the current what-to by spending an evening with an Old Lyme, Ct., friend who has two lively daughters, 18 and 19. From the girls I keep up in current heart throbs in the movies. I began to slough off in my cinema devoirs about the time Adolphe Menjou reigned as the most debonaire of the so-and-soes. The next thing I knew Menjou was playing elderly parts, with all his spruceness gone. I trailed Clark Gable awhile, watching him pitter-patter the wearing hearts. And just about the time he became the accepted Great Lover, along came Robert Taylor and chivvied up the deepest sighs of all. Last night I learned that Taylor is likely to be shunted to the background for still another newcomer I have never seen, named Wayne Morris. It is all very confusing.

Hoity toity note: Several fashionable hostesses no longer serve bread and butter at their dinners. They regard it as boorish-wah.

It is elegant fun to catch a dog in one of its rare serious moods and try to make it understand. It will cock its head, stiffen ears and often tremble as though striving to get the drift. I've just been conversing with my pooch—telling him what a pal he has been and that I'll never let him down. He knows it is all highly complimentary, but here is a wondering expression as he turns now and then to gaze off as though trying to penetrate something unfathomable.

One of the humane touches in Noel Coward's readable autobiography is his reference to those boyish and glowingly modest first speeches he made when called out by an enthusiastic first night audience. They were so delightfully and a shade awkwardly impromptu. I have heard several and always left the theater bestowing a mental hug on one who could be so talented and at once so shy and charming in accepting the honors. But Coward reveals it was all acting. He always expected the call and composed his little simplicity and rehearsed it many times in front of the mirror before the opening night. Curtain speeches by authors are a bit passe in New York, but they always manage to wrangle one or two of Coward when he comes to town.

Bagatelles: Ethel Waters is the wealthiest female colored performer, having been a $3-a-week cook eight years ago.

Speaking of curtain speeches, a paragraph hop-skip above, I am often reminded of those graceful bravuras when John Drew, slipping into dressing robes (he was the first American actor to wear them), came before the curtain to deliver one of those little drawing room chats that seemed so extemporaneous. E. H. Sothern was a master in such exigencies, as was Richard Mansfield. I was present, too, on the night George Kelley's first hit play opened. He was brought protestingly before the curtain and after a few fumbling sentences someone yelled "Louder." To which he replied "It wasn't important," and made his hurried exit.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

(Editor's Note: The Brass Ring is "good for one free ride on The Washington Merry-Go-Round." Winner of it this week is William O. Douglas, 38-year-old member of the securities and exchange commission.)

WASHINGTON. — The man whom Wall Street fears today even more than Roosevelt is a slender, sandy-haired individual who looks as innocuous as a male ribbon-clerk and talks as pleasantly as Robert Taylor.

He is William O. Douglas, commissioner of the securities and exchange commission, and the reason Wall Street fears him is because he is the only member of the SEC who had the nerve to stand out against the bulls and the bears in these days when it is so easy to join in the hallelujah chorus of "Prosperity is here again; don't rock the boat."

Just at present Wall Street is suffering doubly acute paroxysms of fear because within the next two weeks the SEC picks a new chairman and Douglas stands head and shoulders above anyone else on the commission.

SHEER EFFORTLESSLY Last spring the "Four Hundred" of Wall Street who can boast membership in the elite Bond club, held out the olive branch to Bill Douglas by inviting him to lunch.

It was quite an important occasion. About 450 guests were present. Douglas was to deliver the speech of the day and it was presumed that he would talk about the importance of cooperation between the SEC and the "street" as his colleague, Chairman James Landis, has done so delightfully that he is now considered best friend of the broker.

But Douglas didn't. Instead of using soft soap, he took off the gloves and told the moneyed boys exactly what he considered wrong with them.

It left them gasping. Never before had such bare-fisted language been used on them—especially in the sacred temple of the Bond club.

When Douglas first rose to speak he received a tremendous ovation. When he sat down, just four people in the audience of 450 applauded. And only one came up to shake hands afterwards.

SMALL TOWN BOY If anyone ever lifted himself by his own bootstraps, it is this 38-year-old beto noir of Wall Street.

Douglas put himself through Whitman college in Walla Walla, Wash., by living in a tent and washing his own clothes in a nearby stream.

After graduating, he went east via the freight car route, arrived in New York with 36 cents in his pocket and applied for a small loan to enter Columbia Law school.

He got the loan, and sold papers on the streets of Manhattan to make it go further.

Even with this help, however, he could not make both ends meet, and in desperate financial straits, finally dropped in to get the advice of Harlan Fiske Stone, then dean of the Columbia Law school, now justice of the supreme court.

Stone told how when working his way through Amherst, he had been in the same situation and finally dropped out of school for a while to recoup financially. So Douglas decided to follow Stone's example, and was able to get a job teaching at Plainfield, N. J. Just before taking up his new duties, however, he dropped in at the Columbia employment bureau as a matter of routine. He had acquired there hundreds of times before, always without success. Put this time there was an application for a ghost writer to write a book on law.

Douglas gave up the teaching job, wrote the book and was paid $600. It permitted him to finish his law course without interruption. A few years later he was making $18,000 at Yale, the highest paid law professor in the country.

INTENSE WORKER At the SEC, Douglas is a 16-hour-a-day man. His power of concentration is tremendous. When he is working hard he has no idea of what goes on around him—much to the discomfort of his more mundane associates.

He will keep yapping at a job past 1 p. m., past 1:30, past 2, and perhaps at 2:30 suddenly he will pull out his watch and say: "Look here, it's past lunch time. If anybody wants something to eat, I'll send out for a bottle of milk."

Bankers and New York big shots who are subpoenaed to come before Douglas are surprised to find him so young and casual. He is only 38, but he looks younger than he is, because his hair is blond and combed straight. His eyes, however, are a snapping blue and his physical movement dynamic.

WORSE THAN COMMUNIST Douglas is a close friend of President Robert Hutchins of the University of Chicago. They were associated together at Yale, but had not seen each other for two years, when Douglas happened to be passing through Chicago. It was just as Hutchins was being investigated by an Illinois legislative committee on the charge of harboring Communists in his faculty. And Douglas, telephoning Hutchins in what he thought was a disguised voice, said: "President Hutchins, I am delegated by the trustees of a large eastern university to engage a Communist professor, and I should like to know if you could recommend one to me."

"Yes," replied Hutchins without a moment's hesitation. "I am glad you called me up, sir. I can recommend a very good Communist professor — William O. Douglas."

One Man's Opinion

By X REPORTER

Houses that have truly been homes are always interesting to me.

There's a great difference between a mere house and a home, isn't there?

Somebody once said, "It takes a heap o' livin' in a house to make it home."

That's about the size of it, I suppose.

The other day in a newspaper I saw a picture of a house in which had occurred a sad family tragedy. The picture was labeled "The home of Mr. and Mrs. So-and-So."

But it wasn't a "home" in the true sense of the word, and never had been. It had always been just a house, with some people living in it.

A day or two later I visited friends who were giving up their modest home after having raised a family of children to manhood and womanhood. Their need for so large a place had passed, and they were selling.

The Mailbag

Public opinion, or what somebody in office imagines to be public opinion, is our ruler. If public opinion is active, the politicians and people sit up and take notice. There is a definite need for outspoken talking and thinking on public matters. Honest, intelligent fair discussion of our problems is immensely useful. So that every citizen may have his say and contribute to the formation of public opinion, The Journal invites letters to The Mailbag.

WE STAND CORRECTED

To the Editor: You are in error when you say that federal employees are exempt from federal income taxes. We pay the same as anybody else, when we make enough and darn few of us do that. The only federal employees exempt are certain judges who must pass on the tax laws.

It is true that we are exempt from state income taxes, but there is a very good reason for this.

The state government cannot tax the federal government or any of its instrumentalities, as this would be a violation of federal rights. Therefore it cannot levy an income tax on federal employees.

This rule works the other way. The federal government cannot collect an income tax from state or municipal employees.

TEXAS ABOLISHES RACE TRACK GAMBLING

(Orange Daily News)

While the California legislature was proposing to outlaw gambling as a contribution to the public welfare, some significant things were happening in other parts of the country.

The Florida legislature exiled slot machines after a four-year trial that cost the Florida citizens some $60,000,000.

The Texas legislature outlawed race track gambling at horse tracks, and will do the same for dog tracks. Horse racing is to be permitted in Texas without gambling, and everyone admits that there will be no horse racing where the gambling machines leave the track.

Such action indicates a return to sanity. When the good sense of the people is brought to bear on the gambling question, there is only one answer. The thing is a parasite which feeds on foolishness, contributes nothing to public welfare and is invariably associated with vice and graft.

COSTLY 'BONE SHAKER'

Twenty years ago, Mr. Spelvin paid for a four-cylinder bone-shaker more than he pays today for an eight-cylinder car that barely seems to take a deep breath even in heavy traffic or going up the hills. He paid extra for the little ten-cent mirror that gave him a third eye for cops behind, extra for the spare tire, tube and rim, extra for the frames to hold his license plates and extra for the nickle-kewpie, brownie or other aesthetic dingbat on the radiator cap.

For a long time he paid extra for the lighting equipment, and the self-starter, and I am not sure but that the manufacturer's label was a little something extra, too.

Honor, of course, to the horny-handed, square-cap heroes of labor who put these traps together, and honor to the inventor, the financier and the man who drew the pretty pictures of the ad. But honor first, and in greatest measure, to Mr. and Mrs. George Spelvin, the game, indomitable guinea pigs of the automotive industry whose woes, optimism and humble earnings are built into the car that rolls along serene, comfortable and almost infallible today.

FAIR Enough

Guinea Pigs of the Auto Industry

By Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK. — Except in the matter of beauty, which is debatable, anyway, the American automobile of the present day is a marvel of reliability. So I propose that recognition be given at the next round of automobile shows to the people who, optimism and patience in suffering and disappointment made possible this achievement. That would not be the inventors, the factory talent, the designers or engineers, nor yet the money-operators in the street who promoted the manufacturing companies.

It wouldn't be Ford, Hudson, Knudson, Nash, Graham or Louis Chevrolet, and it wouldn't be Durant or any DuPont, either. It would be Mr. and Mrs. George Spelvin, the average Americans, and the great, reliable success who saved a little money and bought a family car and later on another, notwithstanding mechanical and moral failures of the industry which threw on them the financial burden of the experiments leading to perfection.

Starting with their first jalopy about 25 years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Spelvin have ridden in some terrible rattle at great expense, but I think they are reaping their reward now, either in heaven or in the current models which slide along like the shadow of a bird on slick water, and with scarcely ever a moment's misbehavior under the hood.

HORN TROUBLE

These cars are the best dollars' worth that money ever could buy, and that is only fair, because there have been times when a happy family party on a Sunday outing on suburban roads could figure on five dollars worth of horn trouble alone.

Not only were the cars no good in those days, but the dealer's and manufacturer's guarantee was even worse. A foul and cynical snare which promised to make good on defects in material and workmanship and never to mislead, of such failures, replaced so much as a two-bit bolt or a dime-a-dozen washer.

If the engine fell out in the middle of the road, that was no fault of the car, the dealer's, the genius who forgot to wire it down, but an act of God, the devil or a bad driver.

Wheels came off and rolled gaily away through daisy fields or delicatessen windows, the lamps wouldn't light, the gears wouldn't shift, the engines wouldn't run, and ever and anon Mr. Spelvin, tooling along with the kiddies and the little woman in his costly car, would feel an ominous vibration in his mightily sensitized toes, and know that the gears' worth of rear-end gears had failed to mesh and were grinding themselves to shrapnel in the housing.

ROADSIDE BRIGAND

He then paid ten dollars to be towed to the nearest roadside brigand who charged him $80 more to repair the damage, and, like as not, a dollar a day to store the barouche until he could borrow the money from the loan shark to bail it out.

They made their brake rods of wire cable which stretched like rubber bands, a noble experiment, to be sure, though expensive to Mr. Spelvin. They misjudged the heat of the exhaust lines, with the result that Mr. Spelvin often had to call on the roadside clinics, consultants at the roadside, who put in new gadgets, but warned him frankly, and with truth that this model was just another turkey in the long and painful process of improving the brute of a motor car.

His tires blew out or just sighed quietly and died softly, and sometimes his steering-wheel or his gear-shift lever came off in his hands as he pointed out the beauties of the hot-dog and souvenir stands along the lovely open road.
